One more week of this nonsense and I'll be off to the poorhouse. FIRST MAN to reach Canada from Korean war zone, U.S. state department worker Ralph R. Busick said in Edmonton today that Communist attack was "real invasion."

'Real Invasion' Claims Man Here From Korea

First man to land in Canada from the Korean war zone today described the Communist attack as "a real invasion."

En route to Washington from Korea, Ralph R. Busick of the American state department, told newspapermen the Communist attack was not a mere continuation of the Chinese revolution.

The Communists have little support in South Korea and the war there can not be described as a popular uprising against the government, he said in answer to newsmen's questioning.

The Communist attack was completely unexpected, said Mr. Busick.

HAD NO INKLING

"The South Korean government appeared to have no inkling that the attack was coming," he stated.

"The North Korean army is believed to contain units from the Chinese Communist armies. This is one of the reasons it is so effective," the state department official commented.

He did not answer a question as to whether Russian troops or officers are believed to be fighting with the Koreans.

Mr. Busick left Seoul last week and took off from Tokyo yesterday.

NO EVACUEES ABOARD

No Korean evacuees were aboard the Northwest airlines plane which stopped at Edmonton today.

"We expect there may be some aboard the next plane through," said Pilot J. Fox.

"They are being flown out of Korea now to Tokyo in army C-54's under fighter escort," he said.

INDIA TRADER

Also aboard the trans-Pacific airliner were Hushang A. Ansary, Iranian government trader, and Rev. Lawrence McGuill. Both men came from Tokyo and reported no unusual activity in Japan prior to their departure. The plane left Tokyo prior to President Truman's Korean aid announcement.

"We have been expecting trouble in Korea for a long time," said Mr. Ansary.

Vigorous Support Given U.S. Action By Pearson

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson, warmly applauded by the Commons, today vigorously supported American armed intervention in Korea and said Canada will confer with her United Nations partners to see what aid she herself can offer.

Applause came from all quarters of the chamber as Mr. Pearson praised the "admirable dispatch and decisiveness" with which the United States had recognized "a special responsibility" in the Pacific.

In his initial statement, made after a conference of key cabinet ministers, he made no mention of what Canada proposes to do other than to offer vocal support to the U.S. action and to the United Nations Security Council's support of it.

DIRECT QUESTION

But in answer to a direct question from Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) the minister said:

"We have not yet received last night's Security Council resolution formally although we have seen its text. But I can assure you that we will be conferring through the United Nations with other members as to what part we can best play in the restoration of peace."

Detwiler Deal Pays Better Than Taxes

Edmonton would receive almost twice as much revenue from the proposed Detwiler agreement as it would get if the project were placed on the ordinary basis of taxation.

In a further report released today, city commissioners say the city, under a straight taxation basis, would receive an average return of approximately $350,000 per year. Under the basis proposed, returns would be approximately $667,885 per year.

"It is obvious that it would not be in the city's interests ever to pass this proposal on the ordinary basis of taxation," they say.

REVISED ESTIMATE

In a revised estimate of income from the proposed development of the city centre under the Detwiler plan, commissioners say the city will receive an average of $530,635 a year for the whole 69 year period of the lease.

But to that figure should be added average cost per year of debt services for a civic auditorium estimated to cost $2,700,000.

These would amount to $137,259 each year for repayment of principal, plus interest.

Commissioners say this should be added to the $530,635 average revenue from the Detwiler deal, because it is admitted by all that a civic auditorium is desirable, but not possible—outside the Detwiler plan—"for quite a number of years."

667,885 YEARLY

Thus the city would benefit annually to the tune of $667,885 from signing the proposed agreement.

In arriving at their auditorium estimate, commissioners assumed that an independent auditorium would pay its operating costs, and that annual debenture charges would be the only charge against the tax rate.

Reds Capture South Capital

From BUP and AP Despatches

Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee announced today that British naval forces in Japanese waters had been put at the disposal of the United States.

Attlee said he thought the Royal navy assignment would make a "substantial contribution to the efforts to check Communist aggression in Korea."

In addition to the warships, Attlee said, other British action with regard to the far eastern situation is under close consideration.

Attlee interupted the normal procedure in Commons to make his brief announcement.

"I need scarcely say that the prime minister speaks for all parties in the house when he makes this announcement," Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservative opposition, said.

"We shall do our best to give him any support he needs in what seems to me an inescapable duty."

Reds Sweep Forward

The announcement came as Soviet-backed North Korean forces captured Seoul, capital of South Korea and smashed on within 10 miles of U.S. military headquarters at Suwon in pursuit of broken Southern forces.

The Northern forces already were 10 miles beyond Seoul and 53 miles inside South Korea with seemingly little prospect of meeting any ground resistance short of the Im river, another 60 miles to the south.

Front reports said broken elements of the Seventh and Second divisions, defenders of Seoul, were fleeing south in hopeless confusion, all their heavy American equipment lost.

However, in Washington, a U.S. military spokesman said that South Korean forces "absolutely are not retreating in disorder." The Communist North Koreans, he said, "generally speaking" are being contained north of the Hon river. The Han river is just south of Seoul.

The U.S. Air Force smashed at the North Koreans' Russian-made tanks with bombs, rockets and bullets in an all-out effort to stem the advance.

Two U.S. Planes Downed

Allied headquarters in Tokyo reported "successful" bombings of North Korean troop concentrations, truck convoys and railroad yards in the vicinity of Munsan. Two U.S. planes were reported destroyed but the crews were safe.

Munsan is 22 miles northwest of Seoul, just below the 38th parallel.

Up to last midnight, nine North Korean fighter planes had been shot down—eight by American-manned U.S. fighters.

Meanwhile the first American foot soldiers went into the South Korean shooting war. The first ground detachment was a signal corps outfit.

U.S. forces which set up headquarters at Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, only yesterday expected momentarily to get orders to leave. Kimpo airfield, 17 miles northwest of Seoul, fell to the North Koreans during last night and Suwon is the last effective air base in South Korea.

The Seoul radio reported that North Korean troops landed at Pohang, on the southeast coast of Korea just north of 36th parallel. It said they were 40 miles inland. The city is the main transport centre of southeast Korea.

Tanks Push Into City

Another Seoul broadcast said the Justice Minister Soo of the North Korean government had been appointed mayor of Seoul.

American officers blamed the South Koreans' fear of tanks and far-ranging 120-millimeter guns for their collapse.

The South Korean government under President Syngman Rhee fled Seoul to Taejon, 85 miles to the south, just ahead of the advancing Communists.

First reports of the city's fall came from the Seoul radio, now operated by the Communist invaders, and the North Korean government radio at Pyongyang, the northern capital.

They reported that Red troops had "liberated" government offices, the U.S. embassy, the radio station and newspapers in Seoul and completely occupied the city.

Confirmation came later from Rutherford Poats, United Press staff correspondent who flew from southern Japan to Suwon with the U.S. Air Force.

Poats said North Korean tanks pushed into Seoul from the Uijongbu sector to the north early today and nearly trapped 59 members of the American military advisory group.

Only four of the Americans managed to get across the mile-long main bridge over the Han river south of the capital before the defenders blew it up and the only other two bridges across the

The military advisory group, along with the newsmen, were reported making their way to Suwon.

A Korean source here said the Pohang landing might be a serious development. The source said a double-lane paved road ran from Pohang to Taikyu, and Communist troops might have no trouble in advancing at least that far.

Another road from Pohang to Fusan, Korea's leading port about 50 miles to the south, was described as fairly good.

A U.S. army official familiar with Korea said the Pohang area was infested with guerrillas.

"Withdrawal of the Korean-American military headquarters is expected momentarily," Poats said. "Officers at the airstrip believe they would be forced to get out within a short time."

Poats spoke of Suwon as "the last remaining air bridgehead in the Korean interior." He indicated that if Suwon is lost all American planes would have to fly from Japan to attack the North Korean forces.

He said Seoul's Kimpo airfield, 17 miles northwest of the capital, had fallen to the Reds. American planes ferried American civilians out of Korea from Kimpo only yesterday.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee and his government at last reports had fled Seoul to Taejon, 85 miles to the south.

Unconfirmed reports indicated that South Korean defences were crumbling under guerrilla attacks far to the south, behind the South Korean lines.

Poats said local Communists were reported to have revolted and seized large pockets at Taeju, 165 miles southwest of Seoul, and Kwangju, 180 miles south of the capital.

Smith was taken by City ambulance to Royal Alexandra Hospital, where he responded to treatment. Healey regained consciousness when taken from the manhole and suffered only grogginess.

Senator Thankful For U.S. Might

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP)—Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia) spoke a "word of warning" last night to those who would criticize the United States.

He told the Senate of a recent visit to Washington, where he found a very high regard for Canada. To those who would criticize that country he would say:

"I say we can thank God we have a nation of the might of the United States next door to us."

NEWSMEN FIND SELVES INTERVIEWED

Close to a dozen news and radio men waited eagerly at Edmonton airport today to interview first arrivals from the Asiatic war zone.

The men from the hot spot got off asking for news.

"You know more about this than we do," said Rev. Lawrence McGaill, American missionary from Tokyo.

"All we know is what we heard over the radio on the way across," Hushang A. Ansary, Iranian government trader from Japan told frustrated newsmen.

Although the passengers had taken off from Tokyo, only 700 miles from the invasion front, they had received only fragmentary information.

India's nimba tree has yielded another useful product, "nimbidin," which is being used in the treatment of malaria.

Former Policemen Appear In Court

Trial of ex-constables John R. Boyle and Donald B. Morrison in connection with alleged dangerous driving and pointing of firearms June 10 last, opened today in police court.

The two men left the force as a result of incidents occurring about 8 p.m. June 10 in the vicinity of 115 avenue and 79 street.

Boyle, charged with dangerous driving, was alleged to have driven a 1950 model car around the corner of 114 avenue onto 79 street at a high rate of speed and later to have driven in pursuit of a boy on a bicycle.

Morrison, passenger in the car, reportedly aimed a shotgun which wasn't loaded at a group of boys outside City Park Grocery and pulled the trigger. He is charged with pointing a firearm.

Both men were in civilian clothes at the time. The car was a private vehicle.

Three witnesses told how they heard a screech of tires and saw the car allegedly driven by Boyle turn onto 79 street travelling 20-35 miles per hour.

"I've never seen a car come around that corner faster," said Mrs. William Flett, 11439-79 street. "I thought it was going to turn over."

She said the car stopped first in front of the City Park Grocery, 115 avenue and 79 street, and later came back down the street after a boy on a bicycle.

She said she heard arguing in front of the grocery where some boys were clustered around the car, and somebody shouted "get that boy on the bike."

Where You Are Always Sure of Quality

Edmonton Can't Lose

Ottawa criticism of the Detwiler "Miracle Mile" plan is dragged into the picture by the Journal newspaper which quotes its Ottawa namesake as saying that the proposition is "extraordinary," that the First New Amsterdam Corporation of New York is merely after Alberta's oil and that Edmonton has demonstrated "acumen" by turning it down.

This hodge-podge of superior eastern nonsense is merely laughable when these facts are borne in mind:

1. That the Ottawa Journal obviously has never seen the agreement.

2. That Edmonton has not rejected the plan.

3. That advice on city development comes with very poor grace from a community like Ottawa which has permitted itself to get into such a hopeless mess that it is going to cost the people of Canada perhaps billions of dollars to get it straight.

If Ottawa had had the sense to develop herself properly, it would not have been necessary for the federal government to tout all over the country a capital replanning scheme that will cost so much that none of its proponents dares mention a figure.

And these are the people who, through the Edmonton Journal, are giving this city advice on the city centre plan!

Before the Ottawa newspapers, abetted by the Edmonton Journal, attempt to hold this city up to ridicule, ignoring their own gross ineptitude in city development, they might be well-advised to look at the facts.

Before the characteristic eastern contempt for the west finds expression in such childish statements, these Ottawa pundits (who have ruined their own city through neglect) might attempt to wrestle with the fact that this "extraordinary" plan is going to materially assist Edmonton's downtown parking problem, maintain property values in a decrepit area from which normal development is gradually withdrawing westward and will definitely and positively make money for the city.

The present yearly revenue to the city from the property concerned is $26,744. The present annual business tax derived from this property is $1,834.42.

The 1950 assessed value of it is $751,260.

Over a 60 year period, the property tax on the land and the buildings the Detwiler organization proposes to erect would, in a normal way, average $295,000 per year.

Edmonton's city commissioners, who have certainly not been noted for recklessness or extravagant planning, estimate that, under the "Miracle Mile" plan, the city will actually get $547,750 per year for the first 30 years and $1,048,250 per year for the subsequent 39 years.

In addition to this, the entire city centre becomes the freehold property of the people of Edmonton in 69 years.

"Extraordinary"?

Of course it is extraordinary. Edmonton has everything to win and absolutely nothing to lose.

Excellent Choice for President

The choice of Professor Andrew Stewart as new president of the University of Alberta will be applauded by the entire academic world of Canada.

It will be gratifying to the faculties and student body of the university and to all of Alberta, including The Edmonton Bulletin which has repeatedly urged the appointment of an Alberta man to this high and vital post.

It has been observed, with considerable justification, that the choice of a leader can make or break a university.

This is eminently true because, where lower institutions of learning rest upon a system, a successful university rests upon personalities.

The university process of learning depends not so much on the impact of text books upon budding intellects as on the impact of minds upon minds.

The personality, achievements and qualifications of a university president, then, are frequently the foundation upon which the entire structure is built.

Professor Andrew Stewart is an economist of international repute. He will bring academic prestige to the institution.

He is an administrator of experience and capacity.

He is thoroughly well acquainted with the peculiar problems of the university which he will head.

He is personally popular with the students and the faculties.

All these qualities augur for his administration the very highest success.

United Nations Comes to Test

If the United Nations organization cannot enforce its order against the fighting in Korea, it will have failed in its most crucial test.

It would be stupid to argue that such a failure would justify the abolition of the United Nations because even though the United Nations cannot preserve world peace, it can still preserve unity among peace-loving nations.

But an outright failure in the Korean case would definitely destroy its status as the authoritive voice of world governments.

In this connection, the statement of President Truman is significant:

"The attack upon Korea makes it plain beyond all doubt that Communism has passed beyond the use of subversion to conquer independent nations and will now used armed invasion and war."

This does not mean that Russia contemplates war on the major powers. It does not necessarily imply the approach of world war.

But it does mean that, in the opinion of the United States, international relationships have passed into a new and dangerous phase in which a line must be drawn beyond which Russian aggression must not be permitted to encroach.

The United Nations, then, faces an entirely new threat, if President Truman is right.

If the situation is as serious as the United States believes, it is clear that failure of the United Nations to cope with it will necessitate a falling back upon power politics and bilateral treaties to secure the safety of democracy.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

The Black Lace Negligee And Dying Wife's Last Fling

The other day I got the following letter from a lady who is convalescing in a Montreal hospital:

Dear Mr. Rose:

Three weeks ago I was operated on for a leg infection, and since then I've been taking it easy, a little too slack to leave the hospital and a little too well to keep from having the fidgets. Consequently, I've been something of a busybody, wandering around rooms and corridors and passing the time of day with other patients.

Billy Rose

During my wheelchair travels I happened to come across a story which you might like to use in your column.

It has to do with a black lace negligee that I got for Christmas a couple of years ago—one of those lovely bits of peek-a-boo that every woman adores. Unfortunately, however, I'm more the pajama type, and so ever since I got it it's been packed away in a bureau drawer.

When I was rushed to the hospital last month, my sister stuffed everything that looked like bed-apparel into a valise and brought it around to my room, and sure enough, on top was the negligee. And sure enough again, it went right back into a bureau, this time a night table.

Double Calamity For Patient

Recently, however, I finally got to use the negligee, and the way it happened was like this. A few doors down the corridor from me there was a Mrs. Benoise, who was suffering from a disease with a long Latin name that I can't ever remember, but what it amounted to was a creeping paralysis which had started at her toes, worked its way up to her abdomen and was steadily moving toward the heart.

And as if that weren't enough trouble, shortly after the woman had checked into the hospital her husband had been badly hurt in an auto crash — he had driven his car head-on into a truck which was parked without lights.

Last week when the paralysis got up to within inches of Mrs. Benoise's heart the doctors decided to let the couple see each other for what would probably be the last time.

I was in Mrs. Benoise's room when they told her about the visit, but instead of pepping her up it seemed to make her more miserable than ever. When I asked her what was the matter, she said it was prosably silly but she knew she looked a sight and she hated for her husband to see her in hospital clothes with her hair and face not fixed.

Dying Woman Looked Happy

I had a talk with the nurse, and with the permission of the doctor we brushed back Mrs. Benoise's hair and gave her a make-up on her face, and for a final touch I got out my black lace negligee and slit it up the back so we could put it on her without having to move her around. And I'm not exaggerating when I say that when the dying woman saw herself in a mirror she looked happy for the first time in weeks.

Of course, we all skedaddled when her husband was wheeled in, his head bandaged and most of his body in a cast. And a couple of hours later the doctor came and told me that Mrs. Benoise wanted to thank me for the use of the negligee. Well, she could hardly talk, she was that excited.

Her husband, it seemed had complimented her on how lovely she looked and told her that as soon as he got out of the hospital he was going to buy her a dozen negligees like the one she was wearing. And just before they wheeled him out he promised her that he would be around the next morning, and asked her to please wear the negligee again.

He didn't get back, however, because that night Mrs. Benoise died, and everything considered I guess it was just as well.

That Final O'Henry Touch

Yesterday, when the doctor came in to see me, we got to talking about Mrs. Benoise.

"I'm glad I finally found some use for that silly negligee," I said. "At least Mr. Benoise will always remember how pretty his wife looked the last time he saw her."

"I hate to disappoint you," the doctor said, "but Mr. Benoise couldn't see her. He lost his sight in that car smash-up, and before I brought him into his room I carefully briefed him on her make-up and how she looked in your negligee."

Sincerely,
Charlotte Ferguson.

Smiles

Two Scotsmen in a pub tossed up to decide who should pay for the drinks.

One called "Heads!"
It came down heads.
Then the other called "Fire!" and escaped in the rush for the door.

Letters to the Editor

Facts Wanted

Editor, Bulletin—As the wife of a former Manitoba farmer, I challenge W. S. O. to publish authentic facts regarding the burning of grain, potatoes and onions in Manitoba, as there may be some who do not know better and believe such slander.

Does W. S. O. forget so soon the amount contributed by Manitoba to the Fraser River Valley flood, and the work done gratis by many Manitoba farmers on their dykes? How easily they could have said, "Let them suffer. Just look at all the fruit they let rot under their trees each year. Serves them right!"

That is as ridiculous a thought as the burning of grain, etc. As to England's gesture, we all feel she did a noble thing. So why not let her be the judge of her actions?

Yank Spanked

Editor, Bulletin—In answer to the "True Yank" I am very sorry to hear a visitor from the U.S. was insulted. But I have been insulted over there, but just ignored the person's ignorance, and felt sorry for them.

I suppose our prices are high, but that is our concern. As for dirty cafes, they would have to go some to beat that. I have seen in the States, and that goes for streets, too.

I, too, will not sit back calm and quiet and have Canada run down, because I, too, am proud of the land of my birth.

No, you don't want Canada, but you sure want the gas and oil.

Flag Suggestion

Editor, Bulletin—I have just finished reading "Odds and Ends" by Mr. Harold Weir, appearing in today's Bulletin.

Numerous letters regarding a flag for Canada have recently been published in the Edmonton Bulletin.

I am an elderly Scotsman—a veteran of War No. 1, and resident of Canada for almost 45 years.

It will please me if you can find space in your valuable newspaper for this letter of mine.

Canada is unquestionably a Kingdom, and His Excellency the Governor-General is chief representative of His Majesty the King in this country.

Personally I am unable to understand why some Canadians, who call themselves loyal, have such seemingly bitter feelings for the Union Jack and anything and everything British.

Canada is a vast country, extending from coast to coast, and from the Arctic Circle down to the United States border.

It is made up of ten provinces, all of them geographically, physically, scenically and industrially different.

Canada has many things which are typically Canadian, but not one of them, like the maple leaf, or beaver, for instance, is common to all of Canada.

Such being the case, the maple leaf or beaver could not rightfully be used in a flag designed to represent Canada as a whole.

Respectfully I submit a suggestion of mine for a "Canadian" flag.

My suggestion is that the flag have a white background. In each corner there would be a miniature Union Jack. Across the middle of the flag appears the name "Canada," in blue. Above and below the "Canada" are five gold stars, representing Canada's ten provinces. The whole of the central portion of the design is inclosed by an inner border made by a wavy blue line.

It is my frank opinion that such a flag would be an attractive one, and distinctively "Canadian."

In no way could the composition of such a flag belittle or offend any province, race, creed or country.

Anti-Red Weapon

Editor, Bulletin—We are arming for peace to the tune of $425,000,000 of our National Income, or if it makes our politicians feel better we are arming as a "bulwark against Communism." Hitler turned Germany into an armed camp with the same excuse and what was the result?

Millions of innocent people died and millions left without homes and untold sufferings were brought upon the world, and as a direct result of World War No. 2 we have more Communist and Socialist states.

The facts are obvious. We can't fight Communism with guns and high explosives or even with the A or H bomb. We may pulverize Moscow and only strengthen Communism all over the world.

Social security or social justice is the only weapon to exterminate Communism; poverty in the midst of plenty caused the birth of Communism and is keeping it alive now. Let our governments solve the unemployment and housing situation and Communism will disappear forever.

Better Idea

Editor, Bulletin — To person with initials N. C.: Re. $10 licence fee: I have a better idea. Why not take your $10 and change it into coppers and stuff them in the holes in your head. I am sure there is enough room.

Widows' Pensions

Editor, Bulletin—In answer to W. D.'s letter on Old Age Pensions. It is a sound idea. It would work well.

How many people know that there is no widow's pension in Alberta? There is a mother's allowance for widows with children but nothing for widows over 60 years of age.

You will find these elderly widows at work in all kinds of places, living on a bare existence. They cannot compete with the younger generation in the better-paid jobs because they were never trained to do so. For many years they have been a wife in the home. They are the old pioneers of Canada who went through the depression years without even family allowance cheques! They could not save for old age.

The widow over 60 is left alone, forgotten, and the only thing offered is relief, which means they are tied and cannot move to better conditions.

The answer is this. A widow's pension of $40 a month with no restrictions as to where they live in their own province, and no restrictions of how this $40 is spent. They will not abuse it because a widow over 60 years of age has learned the lesson of life. They want to stay at home and do a few of the things they missed in their youth.

Faulty Meters

Editor, Bulletin—I have no great objection to paying a penny to park my car, but I do object to giving away my money.

Why can't the city do something about downtown parking meters that do not work. Fellow drives around blocks looking for a place to park, then when he finds one the meter doesn't work.

He can leave his car there, of course, but if one of our observant policemen comes along and tags him for a violation, what chance has a fellow got of explaining that he put money in the meter but it was jammed?

NO PENNY PINCHER.

Article Corrected

Editor, Bulletin—The article in the Edmonton Bulletin of June 19th entitled "Whitehorse has growth problems" has been brought to my attention. The writer of the article intimates that he secured his information from an interview with myself, and I wish to state, firstly, that the so-called interview consisted of a review of the days when the reporter was in Whitehorse in the RCAF and I was officiating clergyman to the Whitehorse RCAF station; and, secondly, that the various matters of local concern referred to in the article were not discussed between us, neither am I the originator of the opinions attributed to me.

THE QUESTION—Should Edmonton Transit System issue street car tickets in booklets?

M. Sinber J. Morrison R. Leppard T. Wilson W. Suter E. James

MARY STUBER, 9617-107 street, clerk: If they were issued in booklets, they would be much easier to handle. They'd look a lot neater and I don't think I'd lose as many.

JACK MORRISON, 10734-111 street, clerk: Yes. I think they would be much easier to handle than they are now.

R. E. LEPPARD, 9054-105 avenue; research worker. It would certainly become easier to keep track of them. I should imagine street-car operators as well as the public would benefit by booklets.

TOM WILSON, 11849-93 street, clerk: Quite definitely. The system we have now is foolish. With booklets, the public would be better satisfied.

WILLIAM SUTER, 7602-112 avenue, trucker: I say they should. The way they are issued makes it too easy for passengers to lose them.

ENID JAMES, 12951-118 street, typist: Booklets would be much easier for purses. I find that tickets roam all over my handbag when I purchase them in sheets.

Inflation Hits Baseball, Too

I suppose everything is inflated today, including baseball, and that is why we have three-hour ball games with the Red Sox scoring 100 runs in a week. The Chinese home run, even as the 50-cent dollar, is ever with us, and the accent is on production instead of take-home pay.

It has become a minor miracle, now, when a pitcher lasts nine innings, and I recently saw a manager leave a thrower in the game after seven runs had been scored. I saw another instance when a pitcher was permitted in the park after he had allowed five straight hits—a homer, a double and three singles. Another thrower remained on the premises with three homers chalked against him. If this is baseball, I am Roberto Rosellini.

According to some figures compiled by Mr. James Powers, you can eall yourself a home-run hitter if you seuie a baseball 257 feet in the direction of right field and 279 feet toward left if you are playing in the Polo Grounds.

Stopped Ball Could Do It

I have known ball players who could qualify for that score by being hit in the head with a pitch.

Mr. Gee-Gee Walker's skull was easily hard enough to rank him as a 60-homer man, and Buck Newsom, with the modern juiceball, could have hit ground-rule doubles with his kneecap.

It is less than 300 feet, in Boston's Fenway Park, to the left-field wall, and a pop fly to right field is a homer in Yankee Stadium, which is a scant 296 feet away from the plate. Around the leagues they fiddle with barriers at will.

Everything in baseball is precise except the distance from home plate to the fences. Yankee Stadium is called the "Home That Ruth Built" and it was built with an eye toward the short right-field home-run pocket.

I cannot tell you what miraculous elastic is placed in the core of today's missile, but I do know that choke-handled banjo hitters regularly swat balls over fences, and choke-hitters used to be scorned as recently as 10 or 12 years ago. Lefties bang homers to left field, and righthanders rattle base hits off right-field walls. Nobody's got that much power, unless it is helped along by an inflated baseball.

The Last Has Become First

We revere the relief pitcher in today's baseball to a point where a guy like Joe Page of the Yankees is more valuable than the starters, and there is something screwy about this. In the prewar days a man who started was supposed to finish.

There was no highly paid professional guild of mopper-uppers, unless you could call Johnny Murphy a business all by himself. Mr. Murphy, sometimes known as Grandma, was Lefty Gomez' last two innings, but The Goof and Grandma were a closed corporation.

We play the platoon system today, too, which I altogether an aspect of inflation. We operate on the idea that 40 guys in a ball game is a better deal than 18 men, a shoddy concept. You will notice that Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio are not yanked even when a similarly-armed opponent takes the mound.

Mr. Musial and Mr. Berra are not removed to conform to the theory that a righthi hits a lefty better than a righthi hits a righthi or a lefty hits a lefty.

I will tell you about what sad times baseball has fallen upon. The other night the Yanks needed two pinch hitters in a row. Casey Stengel shoved two pitchers into the batting breach. When pitchers become pinch hitters it is about time for the FBI to take over.

Junkets, Weddings And Prosperity

Portland, Oregon.—Now I know how Solomon felt if and when he had a falling out with his beloved spouses. The Bible tells us that there were several hundred of them, counting the etc., etc., etc.

Suppose they had all got mad at the same time and run home to their respective mammas. The old boy would have felt quite alone.

Well, here I am all alone in the ladies' dormitory of Reed College. I am to be one of the speakers at an annual affair called the Northwest Institute of International Relations.

When the young man met me at the station and told me that my rooms were to be in the in the girls' dorm, I said "sounds interesting." But the catch, to date, is that I'm the only person in the whole place. But a few hundred participants of the various round tables will be in by tomorrow. But the gals are going elsewhere.

Just before we left home, a reader with a Scottish burr on his voice telephoned to register a complaint. He objected to my reference to "the wife" in my column.

"What is she, a piece of furrrniture?" he demanded in mock indignation. He insisted that in future I refer to "my wife."

Bride's Dad Unnecessary

So here goes.

My wife and I—plus a couple of "early bird" guests for our daughter's wedding—crossed the Canadian International yesterday. They dropped me in Seattle and went shopping. I came on alone.

To tell the truth, I was glad to get away. For if there is anything more superfluous than a father on the night of the birth of the first child, it is that same father just before the first family wedding.

The females of the family take over, and treat the males with a mixture of patience and condescension—plus gentle hints to get out of the road of the traffic, but not too far out, in case there's anything to fetch.

My main chore seems to me to look at the various articles of wearing apparel and answer when asked:

"Dad, how do you like this?"

I've been giving the answers to womenfolk for over half a century now and darned if I ever met one who paid any attention. They are pleased when you say it looks fine, but they pay not the slightest attention when you say it looks terrible.

Border Still The Easiest

The U.S.-Canadian border is still the easiest in the world to cross. I don't know how many times I have crossed it and re-crossed it, but I have yet to meet one impolite official, either going or coming.

Yesterday the American turned out to be a friendly reader of this column, and tickled my vanity by remembering all the articles I had written on Radium Hot Springs.

About the best advice for young married couples my wife and I got 28 years ago when we were crossing back into Canada at Niagara Falls. The customs man was a friendly philosopher type — slow talking in the Ontario farm manner.

He told us of the simple formula which he and his wife had used in their own married life for he could see we were on our honeymoon.

"The secret is—don't both get mad at the same time."

The big thing that strikes you inside U.S.A. in June, 1950, is that a boom is in full blast. Unemployment is much less than a year or so ago. Scarcities are still evident in many lines.

The number of people with jobs in the U.S.A. is now 59,700,000.

Unemployed now number just over 3,000,000—a drop of 458,000 in one month.

Building measured in dollars is higher than ever before. But allowing for inflated prices and increased population, the actual physical level is just back about where it was before the big bust of 1929.

Ottawa Ponders Alta. Coal Problem

Trade Minister Gives Assurance That All Avenues Explored

By G. E. Leighton
Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, June 28.—Continuing to spew out oil at an increasing rate, Alberta lessens the prospects of its other immense fuel resource coal. Trade Minister Howe and Alberta members who discussed this paradoxical situation yesterday in detail here were in agreement on this point.

They were equally keen to discover, if possible, other ways of utilizing coal and to keep the mines in full employment.

Oil and gas resources development they agreed spelled progress. Admittedly progress could not be halted.

"On this continent" said Mr. Howe emphatically, "no alternative use has been found for coal, which is economically sound."

SMITH QUESTIONS

His answer came from this series of questions directed by A. L. Smith, (Calgary West).

1.—When cheap coal is available, can the cost of producing power challenge that of hydro?

2.—Can coal be burned in the pit and the resulting gas be utilized on a commercial basis?

3.—Is there any other product of utilization?

The minister's replies were that on the whole hydro was cheaper and coal could not compete. Where there exists a fluctuating load, power steam is often economical and offers better economy.

Secondly, a great deal of money had been spent on the gasification of coal underground and it had proved to be impractical.

On the third question Mr. Howe maintained the future of coal lay in keeping step with the progress of the gas turbine. This engine had advantages of economy considerably greater than diesel locomotives. It was being operated on an experimental basis in Switzerland today.

In the next few years there would be developments in the use of powdered coal as a first class fuel for this engine, in which the hope of the coal industry so far as railway operation was concerned must lie.

PLAN REJECTED

As for hydrogenation for the purpose of obtaining gasoline the millions spent on this experiment have failed yet to prove its practicability. Plants had proven tremendously expensive to operate and the plan had pretty well been rejected.

E. G. Hansel (Macleod) advocated the encouragement of industry to establish in the west.

Howard Green (Vancouver-Quadra) wanted to know if the utilization of coal in the plastics industry is feasible.

C. K. Johnston (Bow River) pleaded for extended research into the problem of coal utilization and extension, if necessary, to the western coal mines of the same financial support by way of loans given to the eastern mines.

GIVES ASSURANCE

On the last point Mr. Howe declared the economic position of the mines did not warrant the government inviting an expansion of operations.

"Obviously it is not wise to stimulate production for which there is no market", he bluntly observed.

But he assured Mr. Johnston and F. D. Shaw (Red Deer) who also had anxiety concerning the future of mines in his constituency, that the Dominion Coal Board would continue to lose no effort to find wider markets and assist the industry in every way.

Wages Of Farm Hands Higher Than In East

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP)—It's a case of "Go west, young man," for the farm-hand who wants to make more money.

On the whole, the scale of wages paid to Canadian farm-hands declined slightly on May 15, but the Bureau of Statistics reported that rates in the prairies were higher than those in the East.

The British Columbia farm-hand got an average of $4.72 a day plus board. That was less than the $5.06 he received in mid-May last year, but well above the $3.44 being paid to the farm-hand in Nova Scotia and the $3.41 paid in New Brunswick.

The British Columbia farm-hands drawing weekly pay without board also were ahead. Their average wage was $3 against only $3.75 in Prince Edward Island, $4.44 in Quebec and $5.13 in Ontario.

The bureau reported that average daily wage rates for all Canada with board provided dropped from $4.04 in May, 1949, to $3.84 in May, 1950.

Without board, the average rate for all Canada was $4.80 against $5.06 last year. Increases were reported for Ontario and Saskatchewan, but rates were lower in other provinces.

The $3 and board which the farm-hand in Prince Edward Island received was 10 cents above his daily wage a year ago. The Ontario farm-hand made $4.12 plus board—a one-cent increase over his 1949 average wage. The Saskatchewan worker made $4.37, which was 19 cents more than in 1949.

In the case of monthly wages, the average all-Canada rate with board increased to $84.64 compared with $83.73 in 1949 and $83.26 two years ago. The average rate without board was $113.76, compared with $113.89 and $113.07 in the two previous years.

Monthly wages with board were higher in six provinces. Lower rates were reported only for New Brunswick, Quebec and British Columbia. Rates without board were lower in five and higher in four provinces, ranging from $82.35 in Prince Edward Island to $123.11 in Alberta.

JACOBY on Canasta

By OSWALD JACOBY

We have already pointed out some of the dangers of freezing the pack during the early stages of a hand. Such a freeze is often just an out-and-out gamble. There are times, however, when an early freeze is the correct play.

For example, suppose one opponent melds five or six cards from his hand, whereupon the other opponent also melds a few cards from his hand. You are now playing against two small hands, while you and your partner still hold your full eleven cards. This is a very good time to freeze.

The opponents may meld out before you or your partner can pick up the pile, but there is nothing you can do about that. You are certainly not worse off for having frozen the pack. If you had let the opponents take a worthwhile discard pile, they would have scored even more and you would have lost a big hand instead of just a small hand.

If the opponents fail to meld out in a hurry, your or your partner should be able to take the pile in a short time. Then, by reasonably careful discarding, you can probably keep picking up the pile until the hand ends. With average luck, you can run up a big score.

This, of course, is a situation that you should be able to bring about only against poor players. Good players will avoid depleting their hands during the early rounds unless they expect to meld out very quickly.

Even when only one opponent depletes his hand you may still have a sound early freeze. For example, suppose both sides need 90 points for the initial meld, and that the opponent at your right melds three aces and lock-jack-deuce from his hand. After his discard, he holds only five cards. You hold a miserable hand, containing practically no pairs and only one deuce. You have two black threes and one other discard that you believe to be safe. Should you freeze?

This is not a bad freeze. You are completely safe for three rounds, with your deuce and your two black threes. After that you still have the other discard that you believe to be safe. By the time you have made four plays, the discards will tell you what else is safe.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, your partner should have no trouble. He is discarding to a five-card hand, which should be easy enough. There is an excellent chance that he can build up the minimum count, and get the pack. If he doesn't, you may be lucky enough to draw a joker and build up the count yourself.

You might ask: "Why freeze the pack? Why not just discard a black three? Then discard your other black three at the next turn. Later on, you can decide whether or not to freeze."

That wouldn't be a bad line of play, but there are definite advantages to the immediate freeze. You make it easier for your partner to stay out of trouble. Without the freeze, the player who follows your partner might take the pack with one matching card and a wild card; after your freeze, he needs a matching pair.

Moreover, you notify your partner that you have several safe discards, since otherwise you wouldn't dare freeze the pack. That information may be very important to him.

★ ★ ★

Q—My partner had melded a canasta all by herself. I had not yet melded. I then melded my entire hand, with two melds of four cards and one meld of three cards. I did not have a canasta of my own. Am I entitled to the bonus for going out "concealed"?

A—No. When you meld out "concealed" you must meld your

Three Mexican Divorces Ruled Of No Effect

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Although poet Louis Untermeyer has had three Mexican divorces from the former Jean Starr since he married her in 1907, he is still married to her, a state supreme court justice ruled yesterday.

Justice Benedict Dineen ruled on a suit brought by the former Esther Antin. A New York lawyer, who asked that she be declared the poet's wife.

She also sued to have Untermeyer's marriage to Byrna Ivens, 40, a magazine editor, declared null and void.

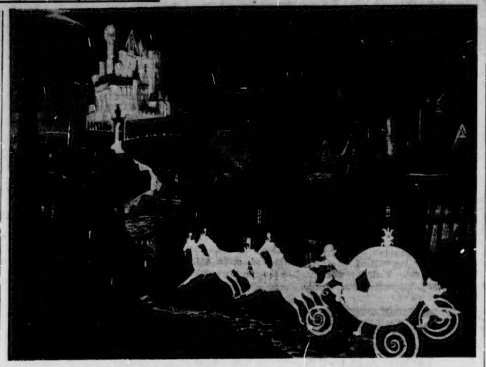
Justice Dineen traced Untermeyer's five marriages to four women.

Counterfeiters Get Sentences

TORONTO, June 28 — (CP) — Three men, linked by police with an international counterfeit ring were sentenced to a total of 22 years yesterday.

The men—Douglas Gordon, 39; Charles Cipolla, 37; and William Ignat, 33—pleaded guilty last week to possessing $33,000 in bogus $10 Canadian bills.

Gordon was sentenced to 10 years, Cipolla to seven and Ignat five.



MAGIC WAND waved, mice changed into horses, pumpkin turned into a carriage and a poor kitchen girl transformed into a radiantly-gowned beauty, and they're away to the Palace. This scene, right out of the story-book, is taken from film Cinderella, showing tomorrow at the Rialto.

Dinah Shore, CBS singing star, and her husband, film actor George Montgomery, live in a house Montgomery built. He made the furniture, too.

Britain Adjusts Foreign Policies

Talks Of Foreign Ministers Call For Reconsideration

By Sylvain Mangeot

LONDON, June 28.—(Reuters)—Britain is at present pre-occupied with adjusting her policies to results of the recent bilateral, tripartite and 12-power talks in London among foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty powers.

Even after official communiques at the end of the conferences, the general public had to wait until State Secretary Dean Acheson returned to Washington for a lucid appreciation of what those results are.

FIVE RESULTS

They now may be roughly enumerated as:

1. All members of the Atlantic Union recognize that they are individually not strong enough to defend themselves against the threat of Communist expansion unless they act with their partners and eliminate contradictory or overlapping policies in the military, economic and political fields. They must rationalize their national policies into a balanced collective policy.

2. The United States is irrevocably committed, within the limits of its constitution, to participation in the defence and leadership of the Western powers.

3. The special position of the commonwealth and sterling areas in relation to the Atlantic Union is recognised as an essential condition of British participation in planned co-ordination among the North Atlantic powers and in Western Europe.

4. Western Germany is to be gradually brought into the association of West European and Atlantic powers.

5. Success for the non-Communist world means much more than being merely anti-Communist and depends on ability of western powers to evolve a positive joint policy which will appeal to world democratic opinion.

For Britain these results appear to have meant a crystallization of ideas in several respects.

First, ideas of parochial co-operation in Western Europe have merged into a wider pattern which would link the whole of Western Europe with the whole of North America.

Second, surrender of sovereignty, which in varying degrees is implicit in any joint enterprise, is contemplated more in terms of a loose Atlantic community and less in a series of purely commonwealth schemes for integration.

Third, all schemes for such integration should take the form of free understandings between sovereign governments and not of attempts to set up an overriding international authority whose decisions would be binding on governments.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—His many fans may be surprised to know that Mr. Belvedere is at present engaged in portraying an angel and a cowboy.

Mr. Belvedere, to whom nothing is impossible, is Clifton Webb, of course.

"In films there is a tendency for an actor to be identified with the role he plays," commented Webb. "I revolt against this."

"I realized I was being typed as Belvedere. That is the reason I played the father of 12 in 'Cheaper By The Dozen.' And that is the reason for this present picture."

"MAGNIFICENT"

He was referring to "For Heaven's Sake," which is a drastic change of pace from the sharp-tongued Belvedere. He plays an angel who comes down to earth to aid a theatrical couple in having a child.

"My friends think it's riotous that I am playing an angel," he snorted. "Magnificent!"

In one sequence he takes the form of a cowboy and he made extensive preparations for the portrayal.

Webb said he has warned his friend Garry Cooper to watch his laurels. Webb having perfected the Cooper-like "yup." Can he roll a cigaret?

"I can up to a certain point," Webb replied. "Then all the tobacco falls out."

Cold Water Helps

OAKLAND, Calif.—After working all night, a sleepy-eyed clerk, Chapman F. Lion, drove his car into four feet of water in Lake Merritt. The cold water revived him and he walked ashore.

Hollywood's Old Theme At Last Gets Its Due

The world's greatest loved fairy-tale, Cinderella, was brought to the screen by Walt Disney, to make the enchanting fantasy showing tomorrow at the Rialto theatre.

Cinderella is perhaps the greatest film ever made by the versatile Disney.

The pages of the fable come to life in his latest masterpiece.

Produced in Technicolor, the movie will delight the hearts of young and old with its music and settings.

The story, the theme of which has been used time and time again by Hollywood, at last comes into its own in a truly wonderful film.

GLORIOUS RECITAL

The familiar tale—poor kitchen girl to radiant princess—is told in the glorious manner that only Disney can master.

The cruel, ugly sisters, the harsh stepmother, Prince Charming and the ill-treated Cinderella, are all brilliantly portrayed.

Distributed by RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., the film that took six years to make, is definitely a must for all the family, from grandfather down to granddaughter.

ATTRACTIVE INTERIOR of Rudy's Men's Clothing Shop in Clarke Building is designed to show the goods at best advantage, both on the racks and in the fitting rooms. Air conditioning adds to comfort. For J. R. Arntzen new store marks another chapter in successful Edmonton business career.

Men's Suits Take To Lounge Styles

Rudy's New Store Opening Another Business Chapter

What does the men's clothing expert think about this year's styles for men?

Well, he says lounge suits—loose fitting, comportable, fully draped—are gaining rapidly in popularity.

The trend is also for lighter weights with pic and pic enjoying a good share of the demand.

Pie and pic, incidentally, is not your choice from the rack, but a type of smooth light material with a smaller "pinhead" than sharkskin, of which it was the forerunner.

CONSERVATIVE

It all adds up to to a slightly more conservative choice than in recent years. Colors are quieter and patterns smaller in suits, topcoats and sport jackets—with teal blues and greys getting a lot of customer bids.

That's the latest word from J. R. "Rudy" Arntzen, veteran Edmonton men's clothier who is opening a brand new store at 10156-102 street, in the recently completed Clarke building.

Official opening of the new store tomorrow morning marks another successful chapter in the clothes-wise Mr. Arntzen's 15-year career as men's clothing store proprietor in Edmonton.

The present location is the fourth his firm has occupied in the city. For a number of years it was located on Jasper avenue next door to the CPR building. Then there was a move to 101 street and Jasper avenue.

Last location before the move to the present home was at 10112-103 street.

DEPARTMENTS

The new premises of Rudy's Men Clothes in the Clarke Building are 100 feet deep by 20 feet wide and comprise a separate ladies' and men's made-to measure department as well as cool spacious salesroom.

Interior decor features powder blue walls, white ceiling with concealed lighting. Furnishings are of simple and modern clear birch.

Premises are air conditioned. Latest in torpedo floodlights throw displays into high focus.

The firm is continuing to feature,

Body Shop Built

HIGH PRAIRIE, June 28.—Construction has started on a 40 by 80 foot body shop to be built here by G. W. Wilson.

too, a time-proven policy of selling nothing but clothing—no sidelines —Mr. Arntzen said.

In line with policy the new store has been fully stocked with latest in suits, top coats, overcoats, sport jackets and slacks.

"We believe it's just a little different," the owner said.

Swings Too Hard

ORTONVILLE, Minn. — Orval Zummach, an ambulance service operator, took a punch at a 200-pound man almost twice his size during an argument. He missed and sprawled on a night club floor. Friends put him in his own ambulance and drove him to a hospital, where he had a broken leg set.

Gold Rush Veteran, 85, Would Return To Yukon

LONDON, June 28.— (CP) — Arthur Treadgold, who visited Canada in 1898 and joined in the Klondike gold rush, was discharged yesterday as bankrupt.

Treadgold, 85 years old and wearing a prospector's satchel slung across his shoulder, told the court he is fit and ready to go to work when he gets back to the Yukon, scene of the celebrated gold scramble of a half-century ago.

W. F. Cresswell, senior official receiver, said the receiving order was made in 1920. Treadgold's liabilities were estimated at £446,134 ($1,383,015 at current exchange rates).

Treadgold had estimated his assets to produce $258,617, comprising the value of equity in securities since shown to be worthless.

WORKED IN KLONDIKE

Treadgold worked for a time in the gold-fields of the Klondike, in the rugged area around Dawson. In 1899, with two associates in London, he formed companies with the object of searching for gold in Yukon territory.

In 1917, Cresswell told the court, a crash came and all Treadgold's companies were in the course of liquidation.

The elderly prospector told the receiver he now is supported by friends, some of whom were creditors in his bankruptcy.

Treadgold also has a statement of claim pending in chancery court against the Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation, Limited, claiming that the corporation was a trustee of mining properties in the Klondike for himself or the North Fork Power Company, Limited.

The corporation applied to have his statement of claim struck out and the case dismissed. The hearings in this case were adjourned recently to July 4.

Treadgold's action has been the subject of long litigation in Canada.

HAVE A LITTLE WAR

Jackson Berry, the CNR switchman who is the front man in a boxing combine which includes one Mitchell Klimove and another Mickey Phillet, has declared open warfare on your correspondent.

I refer to this thing as a "war" although it is something different from the shenanigans currently lousing up Korea.

But a Berry barrage has been laid down in my direction with considerable authority on his part.

Briefly, it has come to this:

He and a fellow railroader are circulating a petition around the CNR sheds in an effort to have me retired from the Bulletin's boxing beat.

And the Berry people have refrained from forwarding any press releases to this newspaper regarding their July 5 card at Kingsway Park. Although I might say right here that this is a gesture more damaging to their business than to mine.

★ ★ ★

I apparently brought Berry's wrath to bear on my scalp by my coverage of the June 16 card, which featured Al Marotti and Tello Cruz in the main event.

I suggested that Cruz was in against Marotti to pick up a fast buck and get out of there as painlessly as possible. And I drew this conclusion after witnessing Cruz ride a bicycle for 10 horribly humane rounds without throwing anything resembling a solid punch.

Berry kicked like a donkey with a hurr under the saddle after reading that account.

He felt that I was doing him an injustice by recording my true opinion. What he wanted, apparently, was a complete perfuming of both men. If I had scented up both parties I would have been a great guy in the eyes of the Berry combine.

Well, live and learn. Next time I'll pretty up the pugilists I write about . . . especially if they deserve it.

★ ★ ★

But in the meantime maybe I can make clear how I look at the boxing business locally.

I feel that the Berry outfit pay too much attention to what they read in the papers at the expense of bringing in top-flight fighters. They have what is known in the trade as "rabbit ears."

★ ★ ★

Then, too, they have been stung on several scrappers who have come this way. For example, a man advertised here as Duke Ortega gave a lack-lustre performance against Eddie Halligan last April.

This man later turned out to be one Willie Parker, a fact which proves 'Ortega' was taking the Edmonton promoters for a ride. It also proves that Berry and his pals could well afford to get the past performance chart of the talent which they import.

★ ★ ★

Berry's cards have become logged with the same names almost every time out, with such as Joe Kallis and Benny Geary constantly being paraded before the public. It can be reported in this regard however, that Mr. Kallis won't be around for the next a while awhile. He will be home nursing a busted beak, which he suffered after colliding with a left hand recently.

Conversely, we haven't seen enough of good local boys like nard-hitting Ray Olecko, or fancy-fisticuffer Marotti.

★ ★ ★

NEED NEW GYM

If I was Berry I would take great pains to prevent Marotti and Geary from fighting each other in St. Paul on July 1, especially since both are billed on July 5 show at Kingsway.

You never know when a punch, even in an exhibition bout, might incapacitate a boxer who has a fight-for-keeps date 96 hours later.

It is submitted here that the boxers in question are not giving the promoter a square shake, and that it is a matter which Berry could well afford to bring to the attention of the Edmonton Boxing and Wrestling Commission.

★ ★ ★

The fight game locally could use among other things, a better gymnasium than that black hole which now passes for one in the basement of the Gem theatre.

In addition, the town needs a trainer who knows his onions if the local boys are ever to develop into headline attractions.

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—In a game against Auburn, Florida's baseball Gators stole 12 bases.

NEWEST additions to coach Ross MacBeth's Mortons senior ladies squad are shortstop Helen Shearing, left, and Millie McAuley, a third base gal. Both will see action in tonight's game with South Side Athletics. Second half of Kingsway park's twin-bill will feature the King and His Court in an exhibition tilt with Singers senior men's team.

King and His Court Here For Two-Game Exhibition

Ed Feigner is back for another two-game exhibition stand at Kingsway. The great fastball hurler will be seen in action tonight against the Senior Men's Fastball league-leading Singer squad.

Feigner, the pitcher on the world's original four-man softball team, the King and His Court, arrived in town this morning.

They will clash with Singers in the second half of a doubleheader. A senior ladies' game, Mortons vs. South Side, will start at 7:00 o'clock.

Tomorrow night the King and His Court will play Pontiacs.

The four-man squad includes pitcher Feigner, catcher Meade Kinzer, shortstop Gordon Mellicke and Jerry Jones, first base.

Feigner, called the King of Softball, has an average of 16.5 strikeouts per seven inning game. His total strikeouts in 10 years is 10,672.

The King will exhibit 18 different windups. He has 14 deliveries and five speeds. He will also pitch from second base and centre field and will also use a blindfold during the course of the game.

The team's record from 1946 to 1949 is 87 wins against a single loss.

Kingsway officials constructed bleachers in centre field to take care of an expected record crowd. Hundreds were turned away last year when the squad played a two-game series here.

Lillis Headed For Cleveland

Bob Lillis, University of Southern California shortstop who joined Eskimos just over two weeks ago, will be on his way again tomorrow morning.

He has a date with Hank Greenberg, general manager of Cleveland Indians, of the American league. The date will be kept Friday morning, and likely for several mornings thereafter, at Municipal Stadium, in the Ohio metropolis.

Lillis will work out under the watchful eyes of Greenberg, once the terror of American league moundsman when he played first base for Detroit Tigers.

★ ★ ★

The idea is that Cleveland—through Greenberg—already has agreed to hand over $18,000 to the strong-armed Californian signature. All Greenberg is interested in is determining where to fit the boy into the Cleveland system.

However, the 20-year-old Lillis also has agreed to drop by at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, and do his stuff for the brass of the National league champions. And the way he's going to be getting around, he might even pop up at Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds.

It will, therefore, be several days before the immediate destination of the ex-Esk shortstop is known. Conceivably he might even be back, should he fall flat on his face.

★ ★ ★

During his 13-game stay with Eskimos, Lillis batted an even .400. He had 20 hits in 50 times at bat, including three homers, two triples and two doubles. He drove in eight runs.

His fielding mark was .918, result of 29 putouts, 44 assists and eight errors.

He now moves into the sectional playoffs—along with other western district winners—to be held at Kitchener on June 30 at 2:30 p.m.

Woodenface is slated to be at Rossdale today at 4 p.m. and Jasper Place tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Wynn Takes Long Walk After Dodgers Run Wild

By Stan Moher
Bulletin Sports Editor

The belief in baseball circles is that the base-on-balls has decided the outcome of more games than has the home run.

Certainly rookie Don Wynn, Eskimo southpaw, can buy a lot of this belief after what happened to him at Renfrew Park last night.

Manager Jim Ryan's Dodgers regained the Big Four league penthouse by downing Eskimos 9-4. The "fall-guy" of the piece, from an Esk standpoint, was the 20-year old Wynn.

The south side boy started on the mound for the Men of Morris. He lasted less than three innings, before turning over to Jack Devine. A breakdown of the Wynn bowling goes like this:

Six hits, seven runs, six of which were earned; five bases-on-balls, one balk, nary a strikeout.

Devine 'Shows' In Relief

It took him 20 minutes to erase the Dodgers their first time at bat. Of his first 12 pitches only one found the strike zone. Between times, in that first inning, Ryan and third-sacker Des O'Connor chipped in with solid base-hits to turn those free tickets to first into oil.

Wynn somehow got through the second inning, only to have the Dodgers go to work on him again in the third. Only this time he was getting the ball in the strike area and the Dodgers were teeing off on him.

Singles by Ryan and newcomer catcher Bob Coughlin, from Lougheed, O'Connor's ringing double down the left field foul line, a base-on-balls to Doug Stewart and an error by George Bradish, Esk shortstop, added to four runs before Devine came on the scene with his fireman's hose.

By this time the score was 7-0 and a Dodger club, playing fine baseball again after a recent slump, wasn't for caving in over the rest of the route.

Devine pitched a heady article of ball in the seven innings he worked, rationing the Ryanmen of three hits and a pair of runs. It was close to his best performance since he hit Renfrew to start the 1949 season.

Purvis Had Little Trouble

Righthander Al Purvis, who doesn't seem to have the confidence of his bosses to anything like the extent he should, had little trouble rolling back the Esks.

Tough in the clutch, he stranded 13 of the opposition on the basepaths.

He took particular delight in cooling out Esk shortstop Bob Lillis, who leaves for a Cleveland, Brooklyn and all points west tryout tomorrow.

In the sixth, with the bases loaded and two away, best Lillis could do was pop out to short. In the eighth, as a pair of teammates eagerly awaited delivery to the cash register, the Los Angeles youth went fishing for an outside pitch and was a strikeout victim.

Otherwise Lillis' swan song to the Big Four was pretty gilt-edged. He walloped a 350-foot double in the fifth and handled 11 chances flawlessly. He was the front man in two double plays, also took part in a third twin rubout.

Des O'Connor, who drove in five runs, was Mr. Swat for the night.

Dodgers introduced a pair of newcomers, the aforementioned Coughlin and shortstop Jim Hall, late of Los Angeles college circles.

Coughlin, who attended a San Francisco Seals tryout camp in the spring of 1949, proved to be quite a holler guy. He looks like he'll help the Dodgers a lot.

Hall showed the 1500 in the pews a mighty potent arm, while covering plenty of ground between second and third. He drew a pair of free tickets and had a sacrifice hit in five trips.

Navy Nine Loses Again

The All-American outs of the Senior Men's "B" Fastball league, Navy, lost another game last night.

Fire Department, with pitcher Pete Danylowich spinning a two-hitter, whipped the hapless Navy nine 7-1 at Kingsway.

Navy hurler Arnold Barnhart spoiled Danylowich's no-hitter with a single to left in the second. Third sacker Phil Mantion got the only other hit off the Fireman hurler.

Danylowich helped his own cause by batting three for three and accounting for three of the Smoke-Eaters' runs.

DEFEATS HENRY WILLIAMS

Harper PGA Winner With 4 and 3 Victory

COLUMBUS, O, June 28—(AP)—Chandler Harper, 36-year-old public course professional from Portsmouth, Va., yesterday won the $40,000 mid-century Professional Golfers Association championship, defeating Henry Williams, Jr., of Seqne, Pa., 4 and 3 in the 36-hole finals.

Harper led all the way and closed out the match on the 33rd hole with a seven-foot putt for a birdie three.

In 12 years of touring the tournament trail, Harper had won only one tournament up to yesterday—the 1950 Tucson Open. His victory here came as a surprise to everyone but Chandler Harper.

"After I got by Dick Metz in the second round, I felt that I could win," the Virginian said. "I still had Lloyd Mangrum and Jimmy Demaret in my way, but I had a hunch I could get by them, because I was playing consistently."

In his last three 36-hole matches —against Mangrum, Demaret and Williams—the new boss of the pro's was never behind his opponent.

He wound up his match-play chores 23 under par, although several of his birdies were conceded.

Yesterday's match between the two dark horses was a drab one most of the way. Williams, nervous at the start, went over par on the first three holes to give Harper a 3-up lead, and Williams never got more than one of them back.

Open Letter to NHL President . . .

Mr. Clarence Campbell
Sun Life Bldg.
Montreal.
Dear Mr. Campbell:

Bob Lillis, a young (20) fellow who has been playing shortstop for Eskimos, of the Big Four league, leaves for Cleveland in the morning. In itself, this isn't exactly earth-shaking news, more especially to a hockey man like yourself.

Nevertheless I can't help drawing comparisons between the current position of this California kid and that of Billy Dea, the 16-year-old Edmonton hockey comer that five National Hockey league teams and one AHL aggregation were after last spring.

★ ★ ★ ★

Lillis is going to Cleveland—of his own free will—to work out for Greenberg, general manager of the Indians, that city's entry in the American circuit.

★ ★ ★ ★

Already, the story goes, Greenberg has agreed to pay him a bonus of $18,000 for signing with the Indian organization. However young Lillis is under no compulsion to get on the line with the Cleveland team.

If he doesn't like how Mr. Greenberg parts his hair or the way the grounders hop in Municipal Stadium, he's free to chuck the whole thing.

★ ★ ★ ★

He can, if he wants, accept another offer, made by Brooklyn, to work out at Ebbets Field. Then, if the boy from University of Southern California thinks he can carve out a better future under Branch Rickey, he's free to ink a Brooklyn contract.

★ ★ ★ ★

Or it might work out that he'll land with New York Yankees or Chicago Cubs.

In other words, Mr. Campbell, Bob Lillis, a boy with baseball ability to sell, can sell it where he'll do himself the most good. That adds up, don't you think?

But what about Billy Dea, another young man who had hockey ability to sell there last spring? This is really where you come into the picture, Mr. Campbell. After all you have nothing to say about what the baseball men do.

As I remember the 'Billy Dea Case' all National league clubs, except Toronto Maple Leafs, were hopeful of adding the young forward to their negotiation list, once he turned 16.

★ ★ ★ ★

As well Cleveland Barons, of the American league, were hot on his trail.

★ ★ ★ ★

But there was no bidding for his services, in the sense that Cleveland and Brooklyn are bidding for the services of baseballer Bob Lillis. Not a National league team offered young Dea a penny. They didn't have to.

The day he was 16, you'll remember, five 'claims' to his services reposed in your office. Several of the teams hadn't even bothered to contact young Dea or his parents, so high and mighty is the arrangement whereby professional hockey men 'protect' each other's interests in a matter like this.

In the end New York Rangers, because they had finished last the season before, got him, even though he had expressed a boyish yen to one day play for Detroit Red Wings.

★ ★ ★ ★

What's more Billy Dea didn't get more than a hundred dollars or so for his signature, even when he finally agreed to attend a Ranger tryout camp.

★ ★ ★ ★

I find it puzzling Mr. Campbell, to say the least. Why the Bob Lillises should be so much better off than the Billy Deas when it comes time to sign away the future has me stopped.

How do you figure it, Mr. Campbell?

MIKE JOHNSON STARS

Game Purity Squad Edges Buffaloes 9-8

CALGARY, June 28—(CP)—The battling Purity 99'ers, bidding fair to become the Cinderella team of the Big Four inter-city baseball league, climaxed a tremendous uphill struggle before a crowd of 1,200 fans in Buffalo Stadium last night, with a sparkling 9-8 win over the third-place Calgary Buffs.

Buffs rolled up an easy 7-1 lead in three and one-half innings of play.

From that point the story of the game was the story of a never-say-die spirit as the cellar-dwelling Puritans surged up inning by inning in the face of the odds, to wipe out the margin and move within one game of the Buffaloes in the loop standings.

They picked up two runs in the bottom half of the fourth inning, two more in the fifth and one in the seventh while holding Vince Pesky's crew scoreless.

In the eight, a red-hot three-run rally enabled the Oilmen to break for home, and they held their hard-won edge the rest of the way. A singleton by Buffs in the top of the ninth completed the scoring.

Bespectacled Mike Johnson was the second of two Puritan pitchers, and the man credited with the win. The tall lefthander went to the mound in place of starter Pepi Peterson in the fourth inning, and allowed only four hits and three runs the rest of the way.

Peterson was nicked for five hits and five runs in the three and one-third innings he worked.

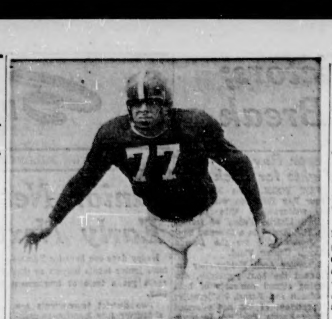
Lalonde In Hall of Fame

KINGSTON, Ont., June 28.—(BUP)—Nine of hockey's all-time greats were admitted yesterday to International Hockey Hall of Fame, hall president James Garvin announced.

The nine new members were Edouard Charles (Newsy) Lalonde, once with Saskatoon Crescents, Joe Malone, Frank Patrick, Allan (Scotty) Davidson, Charles Graham Drinkwater, Mike Grant, Silas (Si) Griffis, George Richardson and Harry J. Trihey.

Four of them, Davidson, Drinkwater, Richardson and Trihey are dead. Davidson and Richardson both were killed in action in the First World War.

With the exception of Drinkwater, Grant, Richardson and Trihey, all new members were professionals.



NEW ARRIVAL in the Edmonton Eskimo football camp last night was Don Narrell, tackle from Texas Christian University. Co-captain with Lindy Berry at TCU last fall, Narrell motored to Edmonton in company with Morris Bailey, an end who will also line up with the Eskimos. Narrell is a big specimen, standing 6-foot-4 and weighing 240 pounds.

Oilers Square Senior B Series

A two-run scoring single by Johnny Johnson in the eighth inning gave Texaco Oilers a 7-6 win over Canucks at Clarke Stadium last night.

The win ties the best-of-three series in provincial senior 'B' baseball playdowns at one game each. Canucks copped the initial tilt 10-9 Saturday.

Trailing by a 6-5 count, Oilers squeezed across two runs in the eighth to cop the decision.

Canucks led by a 5-1 count after two minutes of play bu the Oilmen exploded for four tallies in the third stanza to soar back into contention.

Pete Andrews, who relieved Bill Skakun in the third frame, was tagged with the loss. Dave Rusnak gained credit for the win.

The final game of the series will be played tomorrow night at Diamond park starting at 6:30.

Larry Jensen Shatters Brooklyn Dodger Manacles

NEW YORK, June 28—(CP)—Brooklyn Dodgers have been beating Larry Jansen consistently for two seasons but they failed to get to him last night and that was fatal to their hold on the National league leadership.

Jansen, New York Giant right-hander, dumped Dodgers into third place as the New Yorkers hammered out a 10-3 win for him. His consecutive scoreless inning streak was stopped at 30 but Larry went on to win his eighth game of the season.

Philadelphia Phillies rapped only three hits at Boston but made the most of two of them, whipped the Braves 3-2 and took over the leadership, with St. Louis in second place.

One Philly hit was Dick Sisler's two-run homer which just dropped into the right field Ebbets park pen. The first Quaker safety was a run-scoring double by Andy Seminick.

PIRATES LOSE 8-3

At Pittsburgh, Cincinnati Reds poured it on the hapless Pirates 8-3 before an apathetic crowd of 13,500. Grady Hatton had a two-run homer for the Reds ir the fourth.

St. Louis Cardinals snapped out of their slump and swept a double-header with Chicago Cubs, 3-2 and 4-1, before a huge week-day crowd of 36,852 at Chicago.

Cards, who had lost eight of their previous 10 games, were blessed with brilliant pitching. Howie Pollet scattered eight hits in the opener. Another southpaw veteran, Max Lanier, tossed a five-hitter in the nightcap. It was the seventh victory for each of them.

In the American league, Boston Red Sox put together two singles, two walks and a ball batsman at Philadelphia to push across two runs in the 11th and defeat the A's 7-5.

WILLIAMS HELPS BOSTON

Ted Williams' 22nd home run helped the Bostonians score their fifth straight victory since Steve O'Neill took over the managership. He also hit a pair of doubles.

At St. Louis, home runs by Dick Kokos and Don Lenhardt spoiled Bobby Feller's bid for his 200th victory of his American league career as the Browns nosed Cleveland Indians 4-3.

VERNON'S HOMER WINS

Mickey Vernon's home run with two mates aboard in the top of the 12th gave Washington Senators a 4-3 triumph over the Yankees at New York.

Pinch hitter Johnny Mize's single with the bases loaded gave the Yanks two runs in the first half of the 12th, but relief pitcher Mickey Harris got Phil Rizzuto to hit into a game ending double play with runners on first and third.

Young Teddy Gray posted his second triumph in three days as Detroit Tigers roared from behind to cut down the Chicago White Sox 9-3 at Detroit.

Hoadley Again Hot Shot

Bill Hoadley fired two perfect rounds at the Edmonton Gun club last night to lead a large field of trapshooters. Bill Davis hung tough, as always, with a round of 98.

Other top scores were: Bill Lothian, Charlie Craddock and Babe Gaucher, 94; Hal Straight, Dr. Paul Herviaux and L. Kestner, 93; C. Parres, Mrs. Hoadley and George Dame, 92; Bob Turner, Dr. Eardley Allin and B. Farnham, 91.

Davis led the handicap shooters with 22 and Hoadley topped the doubles field with 19.

Next Thursday night Dr. Allin expects to lead a team of doctors against a team of dentists under the captaincy of Dr. Herviaux.

FAVOR TALBERT AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28—(AP)—The ever-changing Wimbledon trend swung yesterday to poker-faced Billy Talbert as top choice to win the men's singles in the all-England Lawn Tennis championships.

The 31-year-old campaigner from New York, loafing into the third round, showed the nearest thing to perfect all-court form that these world-famous courts have seen since Jack Kramer blasted into the professional ranks.

Talbert glided past Marcel Coen of Egypt, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0. In command of every possible phase of the match, he showed every potentiality that makes a Wimbledon champion.

Clubmen Strike For 12-9 Triumph

EAC produced their best Junior Baseball league rally in years at Clarke Stadium recently, scoring six runs in the eighth inning to trounce Maple Leafs, 12-9.

The Clubmen have formed the rear echelon in the junior battalion for longer than most EAC officials care to recall.

But they parlayed three hits and spotty control on the part of Maple Leaf pitcher Mike Mishner into a six-run barrage to win their second game in nine starts this year.

In arrears but travelling into the last of the eighth, EAC made full use of the breaks at this point.

Mishner walked Jim Fraser, hit Len Haley and Ernie Ursulak, and then saw his mates commit two errors behind him.

By the time further singles by Phil Horn, Jim Grant and Walt Kecksio, and six runs had been recorded in the scorebook, Mishner had long since been replaced on the Leaf mound by Ed McDonald.

Leafs had a bid third inning, producing five runs which served to overtake a 3-0 lead which EAC accumulated in the first frame. Bill Bucyk's three-run homer to left highlighted the Maple Leaf surge.

Result failed to alter the standings, Leafs remaining in third place and EAC still in the cellar, although not so deep as formerly.

EAC	301	002	06x	—	12	16	0

Bill Olson, Mishner (1), McDonald (8) and Bob Olson; Kotie, Ursulak (8) and Pearson.

North Side Legion junior soccer players are requested to report to Clarke Stadium tomorrow night at 6:30 for the league game with Ukraina.

LUSCIOUS LUKE Easter gets a good look at Elmer Valo's throw to Fermi Guerrs as the huge Cleveland first baseman slides home safely against Philadelphia Athletics in recent American baseball league game. Villains Rassle Victors; Hart Gets Lucky Break

By Bart Gibb

Unlike a melodrama, the villains were victorious last night in the final chapter of the weekly wrestling show at the Stock Pavilion.

Local heros, Pat McGill and Chief Thunderbird, were literally pounded to a pulp (it says here) by badmen Lou Newman and Al 'Mr. Murder' Mills, who won the Australian Tag match by a count of three falls to two.

Popular Edmonton product—Stu Hart—scored a win over Laverne (the Boston Beast) Baxter in the semi-windup, while Danny Cilosky defeated Nick Albert in the prelim.

FANS FAVOR 'HEROES'

It was evident from the start that Mills and Newman were out to win at all costs, and it wasn't long before the fans favored the side of McGill and the Chief.

In fact, they backed the heros to such an extent that several spectators went so far as to climb up to the ring swinging their fists.

Mills retired one fist swinging fanatic with a clout on the head.

The villains bagged the first fall after 25 minutes of grappling, hair pulling and punching. Newman pinned Thunderbird to the mat with a body press.

MCGILL MAD

Seven minutes and twenty seconds later McGill evened up the bout. He flattened Newman with three drop kicks and a body press.

Mills notched the deciding fall with a Japanese abdominal stretch at 7:20.

Baxter had Hart right where he wanted him in the semi-windup, but lost the match due to his rough tactics. With the match tied at one fall each, Baxter was disqualified by referee Chesty Jackson, for supposedly using a ring chain to crush Harts' face.

First fall was scored by Hart at 10:40 with a flying cross, while Baxter netted the second with a body press.

The one-fall preliminary went to Vilosky when referee Tiger Goldstick disqualified Nick Albert. Albert took several punches at Goldstick and lost the bout as a result.

WINNIPEG, June 28—(CP)—Favorites and long-shots each had their innings at Polo Park yesterday. The track, after an all-night downpour Sunday night, still was heavy.

AT SASKATOON

Canadian Amateur Starts July 15

SASKATOON, June 28—A championship course, excellent hotel accommodation and a friendly western city await the competitors in the Canadian amateur golf tournament and Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches to bes staged over the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club course July 15 to 22.

Recent rains have worked wonders with the course, which is rated by many experts as one of the best in prairie provinces.

The championship 6,316-yard layout with its wide fairways and large rolling greens is not as easy as it looks and its par 70 is seldom broken. Course record of 67 is held jointly by Pat Fletcher, current club pro, and Wilf Greenwood, Regina, who was recently reinstated to the amateur ranks.

Tournament headquarters will be in the Bessborough, one of the Canadian National Railways chain of Canadian hotels. Transportation will also be provided competitors from downtown hotels to the course and return.

Dick Chapman, 1949 Canadian champion will not be back but Frank Stranahan, former titleholder and current British amateur champion, will be in the field along with a number of leading amateurs from the northern states. With the exception of Newfoundland, all of Canada's provinces will have representatives in the tournament.

Getting Out Votes

HAVERHILL, Mass.—A new political development was disclosed in the financial report of a Haverhill committee which worked for the election of Rep. William H. Bates, R., Mass. The Haverhill Bates-for-Congress Committee reported it spent $7 for baby sitters, a service to voting parents.

Longest price of the day came in the fourth race, when Dumbfounder, a rank outsider, plodded through the mud to the wire first and paid $80.15 for a $2 straight ticket. Dumbfounder just hung on to edge Sunny Tim and Sir Long.

Feature race of the card, a five-horse affair, was won by Air Cadet, owned by Lee Williams of Edmonton, at a distance of 6½ furlongs.

Time was 1:29 3/5, exactly 10 seconds off the track record. Swift Ard was second, and Texas Son, third. Air Cadet returned $5.75, $3.45 and $2.10 across the board.

Daily double of Baby Broom, winner of the first and Blue Laurel in the second, hung up figures of $42.10.

Superfine copped the last race and combined with the favorite, Grande, for a quinella of $16.35.

NEW YORK (Fort Hamilton)—(UP)—Walter Cartier, 160, New York, stopped Tony Masciarelli, 160½, New York, (2).

EDMONTON, June 28—Total receipts: Cattle 630, calves 215, hogs 337, sheep 22.

Edmonton's first cattle auction at the stockyards was a big success considering the quality of the offerings and the large number of small lots to be sold. Some 596 head of cattle passed under the hammer at prices that were mostly above current quotations, with the exception of finished steers which were not too strong. Cows and bulls sold mostly above current quotations. Buyers were not too keen on good quality steer offerings, which appeared to be in line with outside market trends.

A few loads of good to choice feed lot steers sold up to 27.75; good quality heifers 27.25. The morning market opened somewhat slow with very few early sales. Commission men expected a good clean-up at about steady values.

Hogs firm, grade A for shipment, bringing 32.50. Veal calves steady, good handyweights quoted at 24.00 to 25.00. Sheep and lambs were unchanged; good to choice handyweight lambs up to 26.00.

OIL

Discovery Likely To West Of Leduc

By C. V. Myers
Bulletin Oil Editor

An oil discovery west of the Leduc field was indicated today when Northern B.A. Leduc Leaseholds No. 1 flowed oil in the D-3 zone 31 feet below the Leduc water line. D-3 was contacted seven feet below the Leduc D-3 water line.

In all the Leduc Woodbend section the D-3 has a constant water line of around 3,020 feet below sea level.

The new wildcat flowed oil in a test interval 5,411 feet to 5,420 feet. Bottom of the test was 31 feet below the Leduc water line. The well flowed oil in 20 minutes, and there was no sign of water.

UNUSUAL OIL LEVEL

This unusual oil level suggests a separate structure. The edge of the D-3 production is two miles east with several D-2 wells intervening, the nearest to the northeast is a little over a mile and to the north two miles.

The wildcat may indicate the beginning of a separate D-3 mass which can only lie to the north, northwest and southwest.

The well is in the southwest corner of township 50 range 27 of which the south half has never been drilled and the north half has only been drilled on its extreme western, northern and eastern edges. The township adjoining to the south has never been drilled, except in its extreme northeast corner.

POTENTIAL OIL FIELD

Thus there is a township and a half of potential oil field—at least territory that has not been disproved.

The discovery might be tapping only a minor wrinkle, or, from the information at hand it might be the edge of a D-3 mass of any size.

The land in the potential townships is owned almost exclusively by Imperial and McColl-Texas.

Geologists point out that there is still the possibility of a variation in the D-3 water line, but if so it will be the first on the record in a field which runs for a distance of twelve miles north and south and five miles east and west, with barren places in between but always the same water level.

SOME EXCITEMENT

The B.A. well is bound to cause some excitement and result in new wildcats to the west of the south end of Leduc.

It is the third wildcat oil strike around Leduc in the last ten days.

North Woodbend No. 1 became a mile north extension of the Leduc D-3. It is about ten miles north northwest of the Northern B.A. Well. Pacific British Dominion struck 41 gravity Lower Cretaceous oil two miles northeast of Woodbend No. 1, did not go to D-3 but is following up with a D-3 test.

Earlier Leduc Calmar struck oil two miles southeast of the Leduc limits in D-2, followed with a success still farther to the southeast, and is today preparing to spud an east offset to the higher logging well.

Highly encouraging new wells have been brought in on all but the east side of Leduc, wells which hold out promise of extensions and discoveries as yet impossible to estimate.

All or any one of them could conceivably lead to oil developments comparable to Leduc itself. Leduc could be only one segment of a much bigger thing. Dry holes to disprove this do not exist.

Dome-Western Excelsior No. 4-8, the initial well on the quarter section purchased by Dome Exploration (Western) Ltd. for $179,000 at the Excelsior field, has hit oil in the Viking sand and has also found production in the D2.

At present, Joseph Lake, 20 miles southeast of Edmonton, is the only area in the province with Viking oil, the D2 of Devonian is the oil source at all the rest of the Excelsior oilwells.

A rise of 650 feet of clean oil was obtained in a one hour test of the Viking interval 2,721 to 2,751 feet at the Excelsior well. A gas flow measured at 150,000 cubic feet daily accompanied the oil rise. A test of the next ten feet of sand got 1,000 feet of water.

Safety Patrollers Gather In City

38 City Patrols, 15 Visiting Groups Dine At Macdonald

More than 460 enthusiastic youngsters packed the main dining room of the Macdonald hotel and overflowed into the smaller dining room for the annual banquet of the School Safety Patrols last night.

Thirty-eight city patrols with 15 from the surrounding districts, some with their red-coated RCMP escorts, were guests of the Alberta Motor Association sponsors of the school safety patrol.

From the serving of the fruit cocktail to the last bite of Baked Alaska every table was alive with the chatter of youngsters at the year's biggest, most grown-up party. They were determined to make the most of it.

PATROL EFFICIENCY

Efficiency of Alberta's safety patrols was praised by H. R. Chauncey, provincial president from Calgary, in a brief speech in which he offered the assistance of the association in forming safety patrols in any school of district in the province.

National awards made by Ottawa for life-saving along the lines of the awards made in Washington every year to members of safety patrols were urged as an added incentive to the work in Canada.

The accident rate where there are patrols is practically negligible said Walter Crawford, chairman of the school safety council.

ONE ACCIDENT

Last year there was one accident where patrols were employed and the victim disobeyed instructions.

"With 23,000 school children making an average of 140,000 crossings a day that is a marvellous record."

Others who spoke briefly with words of appreciation and encouragement for the school patrols were Dr. G. J. Hope, past president, A.M.A.; Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of mines and minerals, and Ald. Richard Hanna on behalf of the city.

ON BEHALF OF BOARDS

Speaking on behalf of the public and separate school boards in response to their toasts were J. C. Macdonald, chairman, public school board and F. J. Killeen, chairman, separate school board.

The toast to the schools was proposed by F. Walker Blake, director of the association.

Replies to the toast to the boys and girls of the school safety patrols were made by Miss Zoria Lytwyn, Queen's Avenue school, Ronald Ekstrom, Sherbrooke school, Deputy Chief Alex Riddell and Supt. Noel Courtois of the RCMP.

Chairman of the meeting was Chas. H. Grant K.C., legal council for the association in Edmonton.

Out-of-town patrols were there from Barrhead, Lacombe, Castor, Athabasca, Viking, St. Paul, Fort Saskatchewan, Beverley, Westlock, West Jasper, Ponoka, Bashaw, Sturgeon, Red Deer, Camrose and Stettler.

SAFETY PATROL workers from northern Alberta schools were honored by AMA at Edmonton banquet last night and in city for big evening were Const. E. C. Hasselfield, Red Deer; Elmer Ball, Lacombe, and Ada Cunningham, Red Deer.

Rocketing Building Costs, Less Lumber Create Snag

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP)—Canada's home-construction program has run into a two-pronged snag—a new upsurge in building costs and a shortage of lumber.

Resources Minister Winters told the Commons last night that the two factors are "likely" to reduce the number of homes constructed this year.

"Prices of lumber have increased sharply in all parts of the country," Mr. Winters said, "and there now is evidence that even at increased prices lumber is not readily available for house builders."

FOUR PROJECTS POSTPONED

The increase had forced the crown-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to postpone four projects for married quarters for defence personnel because the prices bid by contractors ranged from $800 to $1,300 a unit above prices for similar houses in 1949, CMHC

"The same trend is showing in private house building," he said.

Mr. Winters spoke as the chamber considered a $75,000,000 item in his departmental estimates to cover advances to CMHC, the government operated lending institution.

Other developments during the day included:

FRAUDULENT SOURCES

1. Postmaster General Rinfret announced that brokers using the mails for allegedly fraudulent purposes will be given a hearing in the future by a three-man board before mailing privileges are denied to them.

2. Justice Minister Garson announced that a four-man commission, headed by Mr. Justice J. H. MacQuarrie of the supreme court of Nova Scotia, has been appointed to overhaul Canada's combines legislation.

3. A report of the Commons external affairs committee called for immediate re-examination of the policy of allowing Communists to hold Canadian passports.

BENEFITS NULLIFIED

In the housing discussion, Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said that if the rise in building costs continued the benefits of the National Housing Act would be nullified unless the government raised the amount of loans available under the act.

Mr. Winters said the government did not intend to adjust loans to take care of "marked increases in cost both to the builder and the home owner resulting from the increase in the price of lumber."

"We deem it better," he added, "to face a decline in the number of starts rather than add to the inflationary trend."

Fifth Canada Savings Loan To Be Offered

OTTAWA, June 28— (BUP) — A fifth series of peacetime Canada savings bonds will be offered to the public this fall, Finance Minister Douglas Abbott announced yesterday.

Terms of the new issue will not be established until September, but it is expected to include bond denominations of small and medium amounts.

Decision to issue the new series was based primarily on the continuing widespread demand for a convenient savings instrument, Abbott said. The bonds will be offered through investment dealers, banks, and payroll savings plans.

Trans-Canada Highway Route Scored By MPs

OTTAWA, June 28. — (CP) — G. M. Ferrie (L—Mackenzie) said last night in the Commons that the wrong route was chosen for the Trans-Canada Highway in the three western provinces.

He said the highway was to follow a southern route away from the populated areas. In his opinion the highway should head northwest from Winnipeg and follow the Canadian National Railways line.

Mr. Ferrie felt it was wrong for the federal government to spend money on a highway going through the dried out areas of the west. It would not go through what one day would be the greatest city in Canada—Edmonton.

ALSO DISSATISFIED

W. J. Ward (L., Dauphin) also said he was dissatisfied with the highway agreement. The route chosen was not the shortest.

Mr. Ward protested the selection of a "third-rate" strip of road as the Manitoba section of the Trans-Canada Highway. It would not be a credit to Canada.

If the Dominion was going to spend $300,000,000 on a Trans-Canada route, it should not be made up of bits and pieces of worn-out roads. A northern route through the west would pass some of the prettiest lakes and woods in Canada.

THROUGH EDMONTON

George Murray (L., Cariboo) said the route should have gone through Edmonton to join the Cariboo and Alaska highways.

George Prudham, parliamentary assistant to Reconstruction Minister Winters, said the specifications laid down at the Dominion-provincial conference on the highway are being "rigidly adhered to."

Steer Decorating Record Thought Set In South

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., June 28.—(CP)—Grant Haymes (of Taber, Alta., set what may be a world's steer decorating record here yesterday during the second day of the annual Lethbridge rodeo. He slipped the ribbon around a steer's horn in 2 4/5 seconds.

Rodeo officials said they thought the world's record of three seconds flat was set at last year's Calgary stampede.

The rodeo will wind up tomorrow.

There are 200 cowboys in the race for the $2,100 prize money.

Canada Warship To Visit Chicago

CHICAGO, June 27.—(BUP)—The HMCS Portage will become the first Canadian warship to visit Chicago tomorrow when it ties up at the naval armory pier.

The ship's arrival is in preparation for Canada Day at the Chicago Fair on Saturday. Lieutenant Eric P. Earnshaw will be in command of the ship and its complement of 110 officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian naval reserve.

Mines May Shut Down

VANCOUVER, June 28—(CP)—Officials of Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd. here said yesterday they may be forced to close their mines if railroads boost freight rates.

The federal government has announced that rates will not be increased for nine months, but when and if they do go up, operators said, it will put them out of business.

Western mines, aided by a government freight subsidy, have been selling coal in Ontario recently and had expected to invade that market on a large scale.

Operators said a planned increase of $3.50 a ton in freight rates would knock them out completely.

Ontario imports $200,000,000 worth of coal from the United States annually. Operators have argued that use of western coal in the East would result in a large saving of American dollars.

Most seriously injured was the driver of the car, Donald Porzolo, of Newcastle. Also injured were Patricia Jones, Grace Roberts and Ernest Oschatschen, all of Drumheller.

It is believed the car's steering gear failed.

War and Hair-Pulling

Overheard in a Jasper Avenue barber shop: "Russia talked a tough cold war. Now Uncle Sam is talking cold turkey."

★ ★ ★ ★

I've sure been getting in some people's hair over that innocent, (I thought), item 1 ran about the new short hair cuts some girls are having.

Signed by "Two Shorn Tourists" from New York, a cutting rebuke reads as follows:

We resent a certain remark you made pertaining to short hair-cuts, in the June 23 issue of The Bulletin.

It would seem sir, you fail to realize that clipped hair is now the vogue. We are sure that your "nicest looking" stenographer had an attractive hair cut.

★ ★ ★ ★

We are also sure you lack good taste. We realize that 75 per cent of Edmonton girls have not yet had their beautiful long locks clipped, and why?

Because Edmonton, as usual, is behind.

We should like to inform you that almost every girl in New York has had her hair cut short. Even grandmother realizes she feels 10 years smarter with shorn tresses. It's cooler and neater.

★ ★ ★ ★

It could be that you've never seen a good hair cut and we suggest that Edmonton get some well-trained hair stylists.

Why don't you try to borrow or steal a long wig and wear it to work for two weeks in the hottest part of the summer? Then let us hear your opinion.

'Minor' Break-In

Here's the story of an attempted break-in that hasn't hit the front page.

I heard it from Jerry Bricker of Bricker's Children's Ware at Jasper and 113 street.

The gendarmes investigated a broken glass in the front door of Jerry's shop last Sunday afternoon.

Trail led straight to a five-year-old boy in the neighborhood.

The youngster was, in police parlance, "Most co-operative."

★ ★ ★ ★

Taken to the scene of the "crime" he pointed to the smashed door pane and said: "I broke it with an empty beer bottle. I wanted to get that toy steam shovel in the window but I couldn't get to the door open."

He assured the law he would have left a nickel in the store for the shovel if the break-in had been successful.

★ ★ ★ ★

Saw Pat Malone the other afternoon and he wasn't talking about English cars. He was talking about nothing else but his English bulldogs.

★ ★ ★ ★

Shivvery chit-chat overheard at the morning coffee club in Eaton's:

Dr. J. Bramley-Moore: "The city should require all new buildings to be atomic radiation-proofed."

Ald. Fred Mitchell: "What about the buildings we live in now?"

Dr. Bramley-Moore: "Oh well, we are expandable."

Spoiling Omar's breakfast: Tommy Robertson phones as follows: "Bawl out your pal Omar Blondahl. He predicted showers yesterday morning and I lugged around my raincoat all day."

MODEL BUILDERS BUSY

LAST YEAR'S model aircraft competition saw Jack Pennefather, 10322-95 street, and Ed Hardy, 11415-92 street, tied for top place. Show is again underway, with trip to Dallas, Texas, the major prize.

Trip To Texas Offered To Model Plane Winner

An all-expense trip to big international finals at Dallas, Texas, is offered model aircraft builders by the Edmonton Bulletin.

And model aircraft builders from all parts of the province will be on deck Sunday, July 9, at Namao airport, for the big Bulletin-sponsored model flying meet.

Open to any model builder in Alberta, the contest is expected to draw an even bigger crowd than last year's estimated 3,000 spectators.

Events start at 8 a.m. and will be continuous until 5 p.m.

MANY PRIZES

Apart from the grand prize of an all-expense trip to the 1950 national finals of the Academy of Model Aeronautics, in Dallas, Texas, a total of $225 in cash and merchandise will be offered in the day's competitions.

An extra event has been added to this year's competitions, bringing to 11 the different classes in the third annual flying model aircraft contest organized by the Alberta branch, Model Aeronautics Association of Canada.

Namao airport facilities are being made available through permission of Air Vice Marshal C. R. Dunlap, air officer commanding North West Air Command.

Each model must be built and flown by the contestant.

Events are: Rubber powered cabin, open; Free flight gas model class, SA, open. (This class has been added to take care of the new midget gas engines); Free flight gas model, class A, open; Free flight gas model, class B, open; Free flight gas model, class C and D, open.

Control line gas model stunt, senior (over 16 years); Control line gas model stunt, junior (16 and under); Control line gas model speed, Class A open; Control line gas model speed, Class B open; Control line gas model speed, Class C and D open; Control line flying scale gas model, open.

A special prize of $20 has been donated by Morgan Nicholson Co. Ltd. for the best landing in control line events.

Special box services will be operated to the field, and soft drink and ice cream concessions will be set up.

Stock Sale By Auction Gets Trial

First public sale of livestock to be held at Edmonton Stockyards was by auction yesterday.

Three livestock commission agents, Alberta Livestock Co-operative Ltd., Weiller and Williams Co. Ltd., and O. A. Brown, Ltd., organized the sale.

Stockyard sales are usually transacted privately by the agents and buyers.

The public auction was tried as an experiment because there is a greater trend to that fashion of selling, said Leonard P. Bromham, managing director, Western Stockyards, Ltd.

REVIEW DAY

"We will shortly hold a meeting of commission agents to see if it proved successful. If we find it is popular and feasible with buyers and sellers, it will become a regular feature of the stockyards," he added.

General opinion for the inaugural sale was favorable.

Some 800 cattle and calves were sold at prices that averaged fully $1 a hundredweight more than at a usual stockyard sale.

Buyers were present from Seattle and Calgary. Cattle will be shipped to Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal.

PIPE WORK ON SCHEDULE

Interprovincial pipeline company officials predicted today Alberta oil would flow through the line to Regina by October if construction work continued on schedule.

Construction crews building the 1,200 mile crude oil line from Edmonton to Superior, Wis., were laying about nine miles of pipe each day, the officials said.

Weather conditions were now on the side of the workers.

Permit Boost By Dormitory

City building permits received a $150,000 boost today.

Sisters of Ladies of Charity took out a building permit for a $150,000 dormitory at 8421-101 avenue.

The building will be 19x132 feet, two storeys, and is designed by Fred H. MacDonald. Morin Brothers are contractors.

Oil Maps Extended Every 3 Months

Redwater Destined To Become One Of Continent's Largest

Conservation of Alberta's forests, oil and gas are vital to the economic progress of the province if it is to maintain its position as one of the most prosperous in Canada.

Outlining government policy on conservation, Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and forests and mines and minerals, told the Gyro club at noon luncheon in Macdonald hotel, Tuesday, a five-point program is in operation.

Alberta's oil resources are so rich they must be conserved if future generations are to receive any benefit, he said.

NEW FIELDS

"This province is bringing into production a new field every two or three months. Redwater may soon become the richest and largest on the continent.

"In the Golden Spike field there is a producing zone of 534 feet, the deepest in North America," he said.

The government is interested in oil development, and the major issue is the prevention of exploitation and monopoly, he said.

Companies developing Alberta's oil are entitled to a "run for their money." In 1949 they spent more than $100 million. In 1950 it is estimated $150 million will be spent.

The conservation board in Alberta was said to have powers equalled by no other board in controlling the gas, oil and production program. With "complete authority" they handle Alberta's output.

GAS EXPORT

Turning to the policy with regard to the export of gas from the province, he said the government wanted to be assured of a 50-year supply for Alberta citizens before allowing export.

Eighty per cent of Canada's oil needs are supplied by foreign oil. Alberta at the present time is able to take care of the needs of the prairie provinces. By a stepped up production Alberta may be able to save Canada millions in American dollars, he said.

Wrong Answer

Sometimes children refuse to come up with the right answer, as F. Walker Blake discovered when speaking to the school safety patrols banquet at Macdonald hotel last night.

Wanting to impress upon them the part the teacher played in moulding their lives, he asked if they could tell him who, next to their parents, had most to do with their training.

Chorus of small boys from one of the tables "Buck Rogers."

Anybody travelling in the immediate Edmonton area this summer would feel justified in arguing with Camrose about its claim to title of rose city. Roses are in profusion all over the district, particularly around St. Albert.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Little Dianne Burt of nearby Cascilla, Miss., is well-equipped with living ancestors. A recent count showed Dianne had four living great-grandmother, three great-grandfathers, two grandmothers and two grandfathers.

Westlock Loss Set at $2,000

WESTLOCK, June 28.—About $2,000 damage was caused when two town buildings burned Saturday afternoon.

One of the buildings in the vicinity of the skating rink which burned was occupied by E. Hunter, tinsmith, whose equipment was lost. Another warehouse was empty at the time.

Blaze was witnessed by hundreds who had come to town to see the circus.

200 Offer Assistance To House Fair Visitors

Some 200 residents are ready to help house visitors to Edmonton Exhibition.

Edmonton Exhibition Association has listed these residents and set up an accommodation bureau for the benefit of visitors to and associated with, the exhibition.

The Sunday before the fair will be the busiest day for workers of the bureau. Past years have shown that this is the day most visitors arrive in the city.

A bureau spokesman said today that mainly livestock dealers and grandstand entertainers take advantage of the service.

The bureau already has two satisfied customers—a couple from Vancouver, B.C.

Miracle Mile Issue Ducked

Edmonton Property Owners' Association last night took no stand on the Detwiler plan—but it took a healthy swipe at several other subjects on the civic horizon.

With only a slim attendance at the meeting in the public library it was decided not to commit and admittedly divided membership to a stand on the Detwiler proposal for development of the city centre.

THREE REJECTED

When it came to questions of importing a St. Louis zoo expert to advise on Edmonton's zoo location, baking Calgary a cake for its 75th anniversary, or the recent suggestion that a $12,000 publicity expert be appointed to put Edmonton on the map, the meeting lost its inhibitions.

All three got a quick thumbs down.

The meeting then decided to have George W. Hoslett and E. R. MacDonald prepare a report on the city's park areas. It was agreed there should be no encroachment on existing park areas and that present parks are inadequate in area and inadequately supervised.

Vagrancy Count Under Appeal

Hearing of appeal of Alex Skarlicki against a police court conviction for vagrancy was adjourned to fall assizes commencing Oct. 2 by Mr. Justice J. P. Melsaac in appelate division of Supreme court today.

Skarlicki was sentenced to two months imprisonment on the vagrancy charge when he appeared before Magistrate S. G. Main in police court in April.

Since then he has been free on bail following an immediate appeal against the police court decision.

City Engineer Will Lose Job

RED DEER, June 28—Red Deer Council has asked for the resignation of City Engineer A. B. Samuel, to be effective Aug. 1.

In the meantime public works foreman Lorren Taylor will be in charge of crews and be directly responsible to council.

The resignation of Mr. Samuel has been in the offing for some time due to dissatisfaction and incompleteness of work reports.

Donation Swells Manitoba Fund

FORT McMURRAY, June 28—Two dances held recently in Fort McMurray and Waterways netted the sum of $539 for the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund.

These dances were the joint efforts of all the organizations in the community.

A raffle was held in conjunction with each of the dances and Margaret Hesse won the prize at the dance in Fort McMurray, and Johnny Varga the one in Waterways.

The school children sold the raffle tickets and the prizes were donated by the Roman Catholic Mission.

This sum does not include individual donations to the Flood Fund.

Drivers Mind On His Work

A Vancouver, B.C. motorist whose car hit two other vehicles Monday night and careened a distance of 162 feet, testified in police court Tuesday he was on his way "to dig a graveyard."

"You didn't figure on digging it for yourself?" inquired Magistrate J. W. McCulla of Alexander Calhoo.

"No, not at this time," replied the accused.

Calhoo was fined $75 or two months on the charge of dangerous driving.

STEWART KNEW UNEMPLOYED

Economist Finds Trouble To Remember Family Ages

By Pat McVean
Bulletin Staff Writer

Most people will tell you Dean Andrew Stewart, new president of University of Alberta, is a wizard of finance and economics—but only Dean Stewart himself will tell you of his first chance to demonstrate this ability.

The story begins, the new president will say in his soft Scottish burr that is famous on the University campus, when, as a young man, he had graduated from East of Scotland College of agriculture.

He set off on a tour of Canada and Australia, returning to Canada to buy a farm near the mouth of the Red River in Manitoba.

It was 1927 and for the next two years the farming industry was never healthier.

Then Dean Stewart sold out, packed his belongings, said farewell to the farm.

Shortly afterwards, newspapers around the world headlined the crash of the stock market.

When Dean Stewart reaches this point in his story, his listeners marvel at the acumen of a man who could foresee the approach of the world's worst depression.

Then he chuckles:

"I never for a moment anticipated the crash; my move from the farm was just plain luck.

"Even his luck hit a snag shortly after that. He accepted a position with the University of Manitoba, but in 1933 the University's endowments were withdrawn and he was without a job.

With Mrs. Stewart, the former Miss Jessie Borland, of Winnipeg, he returned to Scotland, joined the staff of Edinburgh University.

Later he was attached to Scotland's department of agriculture before returning to Canada at the invitation of University of Alberta officials, and being appointed lecturer in political economy here.

Director of the school of commerce, dean of business affairs and professor of political economy, Dean Stewart became widely known as an authority on economics.

But expect that he is in mathematics. Dean Stewart cheerfully admits there's one aspect of figures which never fails to baffle him: he can't remember accurately the ages of his children.

Patrick would be "about five". Panel is "around six"; Sabina is "eight, as far as I can recollect"; Billy would be 11—"that's approximately, of course"; Ian is "perhaps" 15, and Robin is 16 or "thereabouts." But without any "perhaps" they are "quite a family."

Dean Stewart is equally as enthusiastic about the university which he will now head.

"The intention is not to revolutionize the university; it is in good shape right now. Our program will be one of growth and steady expansion to meet the needs that arise, and to maintain the high standards already achieved," he said.

Lessons For Students

Car driving lessons may be instituted in the city's high schools this year, J. C. Macdonald, school board chairman, told the School Safety Patrols at their annual banquet in the Macdonald hotel, Tuesday night.

Driver training should be instituted and a committee has been formed to work for that purpose, he said.

CONSUMPTION TREBLED

Canadians Now Favor Wines from Australia

Canadians are now buying three times as much Australian wine as they did in 1947.

Purchase of brandy from Australia has also nearly trebled in the last 13 years.

This was revealed by Colin Mackay, overseas representative of the Australian Wine Board.

Mr. Mackay is touring Canada, visiting various provincial liquor control board officials in efforts to further increase sales of Australian wine products in Canada.

The Australian wine board official said it is important that Australia increase its supply of dollars through larger sales of wine and brandy products.

He pointed out that Australia is now buying $7,500,000 more goods from Canada annually than this Dominion obtains from Australia.

Raisin-Bran Cereal A Breakfast Favorite

By Bea Thrifty

Mmmmmmm . . . more Mummy . . . more!

Breakfast briefs from a half-dozen-or-so mothers gives this sly ol' gal a tip-off about a delicious newie in the cereal section.

It's a new breakfast cereal which unites sweet, honeycomb-coated raisins with toasty bran flakes.

Getting down to the technical talk . . . it's a happy combo of taste appeal and nutrition-value. The protein content in raisins is high as the sky . . . and that's good me hearties.

* * * *

But naturally the smallfry will clomp their fat little hands with positive glee when they spot the chewy raisins added to the crisp bran flakes.

Good grain nourishment of the cereal flakes plus the rich iron and protein of the specially processed seedless raisins makes this newie a winner for breakfast-time and for all-time.

Cherries, bless their sweet little hides, are a-comin' down in this byar world of prices. They're selling for as little as 29c per pound in some sectors of the city.

Nice round-about price is 35c per pound though.

Apricots are following suit with a per-case price of $2.99.

Not so tragic after all . . .

These, of course, are American imports.

* * * *

Fashion favorite of the new season is a cool, sleeveless look in blouses and frocks, for casual or Sunday-go-meeting clothes.

If you're a sew-at-home gal who styles her own wardrobe you'll be casting your blue-eyed gaze toward waffle piques, crease-resistant prints, summer seersuckers, sharkskins, shantungs.

* * * *

I just happen to know, dear sew-at-home gal, where you'll find the obvious answer to your summer wardrobe fabric problem.

It's in a shop that proudly boasts an elegant shipment of new English-made fabrics. There's a natural tone linen I can hardly wait to get my hands on, and for a price of $2.50 per 54-inch yard too.

For the needle-nifty homemaker there's oodles of scope with linen this crisp, bright-eyed season.

* * * *

Tomato-talk is serious these days.

Seems a sad situation when we'uns have to pay fabulously high prices for field and hot-house tomatoes right smack at the peak of their growing season.

Field lovelies are scarce, poor quality and high . . . high . . . high as 40c per pound. Some sell at 30c, 35c and 40c per pound. None of them are worth half that.

Hot-house varieties are tasteless teasers selling at salad-scandal prices of 62c per pound in some shops.

Land o' Goshen but that's fierce!

Margaret Brodie Weds C. R. Manning

CAMROSE. — Quiet ceremony performed by Father McCarthy of Killiam united Margaret Mary Brodie and Charles Roy Manning recently.

Bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brodie of Killiam. Her husband is son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Manning.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown of white satin styled with a fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline and sleeves and apexed peplum. Her finger-tip veil fell from her headdress of sequins and she carried a bouquet of red roses. An heirloom string of pearls was her only jewelry.

Bride's sister Dorothy Brodie was maid-of-honor wearing a gown of blue taffeta. John Feigate was best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Brodie wore a dress of pale blue taffeta and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Manning chose a brown crepe frock and corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for 35 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. A dance for the bridal couple was held in the evening.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Living With In-Laws Is Unwise for First Years

Dear Miss Dix: My daughter is soon to be married and her father and I want her to start out alone in her own home.

Her fiance is at the present time assisting financially in his home. In his home there are his mother, father and younger brother. His mother feels he ought to continue to contribute to the home and live with her after they are married.

My daughter does not have to live there. Her father has told her he will assist them so that they can have their own place and that would enable the young man to still continue to help his people. Do you think that this young couple should start their married life with the groom's people?

A WORRIED MOTHER.

ANSWER: I think that the greatest mistake that any young couple can possibly make is to go to live with either the bride's or the bridegroom's parents when they get married. It is simply jeopardizing their whole future lives. Years and years after marriage, when they have adjusted themselves to each other and acquired the art of living together, they might risk it—although it is always fraught with danger—but it is a hazard that should never be taken at the beginning of marriage.

DISAPPOINTMENTS INEVITABLE

No matter how much the newlyweds love each other, no matter what fine and noble characters they are, the early days of marriage are bound to be full of disappointments and disillusion. They are going to find out that each has many faults and peculiarities that they never dreamed were concealed about their persons. Selfishness is bound to clash against selfishness. Habits conflict with habits.

Both are bound to chafe at the restriction of liberties they never valued until they lost them. And they should be off alone when they make these discoveries and fight their inevitable battle for supremacy.

A young couple should live alone when they are first married because being by themselves draws them closer together. It makes them dependent upon each other for society and brings about a comradeship that they never have if they are living in a house full of other people. And, most of all, for the young couple to go off alone saves them ghastly family quarrels that embitter so many lives.

Doctor Calls Women of America To Defend Their Way of Living

JASPER PARK LODGE, June 28.—"No attack on the American idea has ever been so carefully planned and relentlessly pursued as that of the Communist movement during the past 100 years," declared Dr. Raymond B. Allen, president of the University of Washington, Seattle.

Dr. Allen addressed the 30th biennial convention of the Pi Beta Phi fraternity here each night. Dr. Allen was issuing a call to the women of North America to aid in the defence of their way of life.

Speaking to more than 500 college women of the fraternity, from Canada and the United States, Dr. Allen's talk was on the theme of "women and the national security." "If we are to achieve security and stability in this period of crisis," the doctor said," the matter must be resolved by the kind of thinking that puts its highest premium on ultimate now human values. Women must now participate increasingly in the effort to preserve the true things in our civilization.

Communism was characterized by Dr. Allen as an old idea which has plagued mankind through the ages. "It may be a new look, but it cannot hide its evil face," the University president stated. "It is important that you realize, as women, the full importance of your role as conservator of the best and trust that is in this continent," Dr. Allen concluded. "It is our task to keep pace with the realities of the present while we take a continuing strength from the past."

Modelling before a critical audience can be as natural as sprinkling the lawn or dusting the furniture!

All it takes is poise and confidence and, of course, training.

With this conviction, four now well-known Edmonton models, Esme Fraser-Pike, Denise Moret, Lynn Greer and Betty Hugett met about a year ago, pooled their ideas, and . . . habbra-gadabra out came the Julliard Modelling Club.

Membership today stands at 36 . . . thirty-six attractive and charming women who have taken over the city in the field of modelling.

Julliard Models meet once a month. Along with the regular business routine these meetings feature fashion discussions, guest speakers, and informal social get-togethers.

EFFECTIVE POSTURE for display of clothes, creation of mood and flattery to model is a trick indeed. Julliard Club model Wanda Osborne takes physical training, grace exercises to help her pose easily, naturally, beautifully.

★ ★ ★

Since May, the club has had the use of the EAC club house. Across the spacious floor before a full-length mirror, and past the hockey sticks and helmets smoothly walk the potential models.

Final class of models for this season recently presented fashion show by way of their graduation exercises. Audience consisted of the full-fledged Julliard models, and strain of "that first show" was somewhat lessened.

★ ★ ★

Membership is on a voluntary basis. Latest group of members included Louise Hepner, Vivian Morrison, Berniece Miller, Wanda Osborne, Claire Hrynew, Myrle Hamly, Stella Comeault, Kay Kennedy, Shirley Hill, Terry Wiles and Janet Skasgow.

In charge of their instruction were Soni Le Clerc and Alyse Chrisenson.

★ ★ ★

Beginners attend eight classes. Lessons in hair styling, make up, photographer, personal etiquette and good old P.T. are included with the actual modelling secrets of posture, pivots, and hand movements.

President of the Club is Mildred Mildon; vice-president Alyse Chrisensen; membership director Soni Le Clerc.

Local fashion shows feature Julliard-trained models.

PHOTOGRAPHY POSING is important part of model-training. Julliard model Louise Hepner uses flower to add lines of grace to her posture . . . color note to the black and white casual frock.

Bridegroom's Father Unites Couple in Marriage at Knox

Baskets of white peonies, red and white carnations and slender vases of red roses banked Knox United Church at high noon recently when Marianne Jones became the bride of Ian A. MacLean.

Rev. M. M. MacLean of Sedgewick, father of the bridegroom united the couple in marriage, assisted by Rev. Gerald Rogers.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle H. Jones.

Heavy blush satin gown was chosen by the bride who was given in marriage by her father. A hoop skirt and sweetheart neckline were fashion features of the gown. She wore a finger-tip veil caught to a jewelled coronet and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and stephanotis.

Miss Kaye Jones was her sister's maid-of-honor, wearing a gown of brocaded taffeta.

Miss Helen Ward was bridesmaid gowned in ice-green brocaded taffeta. Each wore matching mittens and carried cascade bouquets of carnations and roses. They wore bandeaus of flowers in their hair.

Little Margaret Anne Jamieson, cousin of the bride was flower girl dressed in pink embossed organza. She carried a ribbon basket of blue filled with red roses. Her headdress was of matching flowers and ribbon.

Lindsay Hay was best man and ushering guests to their pews were Brian Jones and Ronald MacLean.

Mrs. Betty Simms played the wedding music and Toni Biamonte sang O Perfect Love during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Macdonald hotel when mothers of the bridal couple received.

Mrs. Jones wore a grey crepe dress and matching hat accented with French roses and navy blue accessories. Mrs. MacLean wore navy blue and white with a matching hat. They wore corsage of Pink Delight roses and stephanotis.

Bride's grandmother Mrs. C. R. McBrien of Nanton and the bride's aunt, Mrs. H. Clarke of Hanna presided at the coffee urns. A three-tier wedding cake topped with Sweetheart rosebuds centred the bride's table.

William Stewart proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling the bride changed to a three-piece suit of rosy-beige corde with a turquoise blouse. A black model hat and corsage of Talisman roses completed her costume.

Indian Legend Tells How Earth Was Made

The story of Creation is told by different people the world over. Just compare this old Tawasi legend with those of the Bible.

At first the white men claimed that Indians had heard stories of the Bible from early missionaries, and had used them in Indian legends. But it was soon proved that the legends has been told around campfires for many years before Columbus ever discovered America.

One interesting story is the Blackfoot Indians legend of how the earth was created. It is very similar to our Bible story, except Jonah, Noah and the flood are all mixed together.

According to the legend the first man was called Nenaboju and lived in a lodge that floated on the water. There was no land anywhere, just miles of ocean. In his floating lodge, Nenaboju kept all the animals of the earth together, and as time went on, he became tired of his house and longed to see land.

So he called a big muskrat to his side and gave him orders.

"Muskrat," he said, "I want you to dive to the very bottom of the sea and bring me back a handful of earth."

So the muskrat plunged over the side of the lodge and taking a deep breath, swam towards the bottom. But the sea was too deep for him, and before he got half way down he had to give up. When he returned to the surface he told Nenaboju that no one would ever reach the earth at the bottom of the sea.

Then Nenaboju called the beaver and told him to try. With a slap of his tail, the beaver plunged into the sea. Everyone waited and waited and after a long time he came back to the surface. He was unconscious, but in his little fist was a handful of earth. Nenaboju revived the little fellow, then took the handful of earth and blew on it.

While all the animals watched, the earth grew bigger and bigger, until it was as big as an island. Still Nenaboju breathed on it, until it became a vast continent, with hills and streams and great forests.

Then Nenaboju called a wolf and said, "Go around the earth and come back to tell us how big it is."

After a long absence the wolf returned, and reported that he thought it was a little on the small side. So Nenaboju breathed on the earth some more, until there were many continents on it. He sent the wolf out again to see if it was large enough and he never came back. Nenaboju decided that the earth really must be big, so he opened his lodge and released all the animals.

That is how the Blackfoot Indians believed the earth was made. In the Old Testament of the Bible it tells of God giving man the breath of life, and all the animals on the boat is just like Noah and his ark. So you see, Tawasi, how similar many stories of different countries really are.

Sincerely,
Joan Walker

Figuring It Close

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Identical bids right down to the penny were turned in by two companies seeking to sell poles to a Memphis utility. When the secret bids were opened, the American Creosoting Co., of Jackson, Tenn., and the Republic Creosoting Co., of Monroe, Ala., figures were $25,681.70.

Lights Tell Weather

BOSTON.—Many of Greater Boston's 2,000,000 residents can get a quick weather forecast merely by looking at the beacon lights atop the 26-storey John Hancock Building. A steady red light indicates rain; flashing red, snow; steady blue, clear, and flashing blue, cloudy

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

Uncle Wiggily followed Bosun out of the cabin of the houseboat to the open deck. The jolly old sea dog pointed to some muddy footprints, or steps, on the deck.

"Someone came aboard your boat in the night, Cap'n Wiggily," said Bosun, "and walked around the deck. Whoever it was walked on shore, too. That's where they got the mud on their feet and they left mud tracks on the deck."

"Do you think it could have been Squankum the mud turtle?" asked Uncle Wiggily of Bosun.

"No, Cap'n, I don't. These aren't mud turtle footprints."

"What are they, Bosun?"

"They were made by somebody walking in boots. You can see that the mysterious footprints are made by boots."

"Yes, Bosun, I can. This must have been the noise my wife heard in the night."

"So Mrs. Longears heard a noise in the night, did she, Cap'n Wiggily, sir?"

"Yes, Bosun, she did."

"I didn't hear any noises myself. I'm a sound sleeper. But if your wife heard night noises, it's a wonder she didn't wake you up to have a look around."

"She tried to, Bosun. But I told her the noises were made by the wind and she went back to sleep. So did I."

"Whoever made these footprints may have come here in a small boat. Whoever it was may have gone ashore, got his boots all mud and then may have sneaked aboard your boat."

"If that's so, Bosun, then maybe I am the first one really to have discovered this island."

"I hope so, Cap'n Wiggily. But I think we should take the footprint trail and find out if anyone on this island is wearing muddy boots. We'll take the muddy boots footprint trail right after we eat breakfast. I suppose you'll have to tell your wife?"

"Oh, yes, Bosun. She would find it out anyhow and then I would be in trouble. But I have just thought of something else. Maybe we won't need to take the mysterious footprints trail."

"Why not, Cap'n Wiggily?"

"Because, Bosun, maybe these muddy boot footprints were made by—mind, I'm not saying for sure—but maybe they were made by—"

Before Uncle Wiggily could say any more, there sounded from the galley, or kitchen, of the houseboat, the ringing of a bell.

"What's that, Cap'n Wiggily. A mysterious bell?"

"No mystery bell at all, Bosun!" grunted Mrs. Twistytail, the fat lady pig. "That's the breakfast bell."

And tomorrow, if the ice cream cone doesn't fall down and break its point when it climbs into the rag doll's high chair to see what there is for breakfast, I'll tell you another story.

Advice To Parents

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—University of Michigan researchers report that a boy's development is influenced more by the mother, while girls are influenced equally by both parents. The scientists warned, however, that "any attempt to stimulate growth, physically, mentally, or socially, tends to unbalance the growing process and make it more difficult to manage."

Pensions For Aged Considered

Plan Is Submitted After Three-Month Committee Study

OTTAWA, June 28—(BUP)—A parliamentary committee today recommended $40 monthly contributory old age pensions to everyone in Canada over 70, and said needy men and women between 65 and 69 should get as much.

A three-month study by a special old age security committee composed of members of the Commons and the Senate made the recommendation in a 100-page report tabled in both houses of parliament.

Jean Lesage (Lib.-Montmagny L'Islet), Commons chairman of the committee, said the report would form the basis for discussions at this fall's dominion-provincial conference of premiers, when general matters of fiscal policy and social security were to be debated.

FIVE POINTS

In brief, principal points contained in the committee recommendations were:

1. The present means test should be abolished for the over-70 age group, giving everyone the full $40 monthly pension at that age.

2. The means test should be modified for the 65-69 group.

3. Contributions by employers, individuals and the government should be made to bear the cost of the scheme.

4. The federal government should bear the whole responsibility for the over-70 age group universal pension.

5. The provincial governments should share responsibility 50-50 with the federal government for the 65-69 old age assistance scheme.

The committee said that the whole scheme, if put into effect in 1951, would cost $388 millions, three times the amount currently spent by federal and provincial governments on old age security.

CANADA TO THE FORE

The committee said, however, the program would place Canada "without question in the forefront of the nations of the world" in old age security.

It said if the federal government undertook the over-70 universal pensions scheme, it would have to bear the burden of collecting and paying out $324 millions annually. This year, the federal treasury was called on to pay $106 millions under the present plan.

UN Backs Up Decision With Military Force

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., June 28.—(AP)—The United Nations embarked upon an historic venture today by calling upon its members to use military force to back up a cease-fire order defied by Communist North Korea.

The decision was taken late last night by the Russian-boycotted Security Council, a few hours after President Truman announced that the United States was ordering in UN planes and ships to support the invaded republic of South Korea.

The vote was 7 to 1, the minimum number of affirmative votes required. India and Egypt asked to be recorded as not participating because they had not received instructions. Yugoslavia cast the negative vote.

The Council's action was momentous in several ways:

1. It gave its stamp of approval to Truman's bold plan of direct action to stop Communist aggression. This was the first time in its history that the Council had authorized the military sanctions provided by the UN charter.

2. It was a warning to Russia, although Russia was not mentioned in the U.S. resolution, that the UN would not permit the seizure of countries by force.

3. It may have made the Russians angry enough that they will decide to make permanent their boycott which they started last Jan. 10 in protest over the presence of Chinese Nationalist delegates.

Damage Heavy In Hailstorm

BENNINGTON, Vt., June 28.—(AP)—Monster hailstones dented automobile roofs, smashed windows, laid waste gardens, and whitened the landscape of Bennington yesterday.

Clem in the wake of the 15-minute bombardment that sent townsfolk fleeing for shelter came a cloudburst that did further damage.

Car Victim's Condition Is Still Serious

Condition of CNR baggageman knocked down by a police car early Tuesday continued "serious" in Royal Alexandra hospital today.

The injured man, Charles Michalot, 44, of 7704-106 street, has two broken legs, a crushed chest and other internal injuries.

Driver of the car which struck him, Det. Duncan MacLean, has been suspended from city police force.

No further action will be taken until there is some definite change in Michalot's condition, announced Deputy Chief Alex Riddell Tuesday.

The accident occurred on Jasper avenue at 103 street, at 12:12 a.m. Tuesday. Police say Michalot was walking from the northeast curb at the 103 street intersection to board a westbound streetcar when he was hit by the cruiser car, also westbound.

GIVES NO DETAILS

Motorman J. Cormack, driver of the westbound street car which Michalot apparently intended to board, told the Bulletin he was an eye-witness to the accident but refused to discuss what he saw.

Michalot was rushed to Royal Alexandra hospital by City Ambulance. Later Tuesday, his mother and sister-in-law arrived from St. Albert to be at his bedside.

At the time of the accident, Michalot had just finished work at the CNR baggage room and was reportedly on his way to his South Side home.

'Cease-Fire' Is Reported

By ARTHUR GOUL
Exclusive to The Bulletin

TAIPEI, Formosa, June 28—(UP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist government was reported to have issued a "cease-fire" order to its air and naval forces today in compliance with President Truman's request.

Reliable sources reported the order was issued as the Nationalist cabinet conferred all day on the ramifications of President Truman's announcement that the U.S. Seventh Fleet will help protect Formosa from any Chinese Communist invasion.

An official source said, however, that no orders were issued to cease ferrying supplies to Nationalist guerrillas behind Communist lines on the mainland.

NO TOP COMMENT

Chiang was informed officially of Mr. Truman's decision Tuesday night by U.S. charge d'affaires Robert Strong. But Chiang's headquarters and top Nationalist officials refused to comment on the order.

Meantime, American warships were on patrol in the narrow Formosa Strait, where Chinese Communist forces were expected to cross for the invasion of Formosa.

Clues Help Police Hunt

SIMCOE, Ont., June 28.—(CP)—A new $1 bill, a shirt hanging from an apple tree and a stolen suitcase yesterday enabled searching police to fit further pieces into the escape story of the bank bandit who slew two pursuers south of Langton, Ont., last Wednesday.

George Walker, 37, was charged Sunday with the murder of the two men, Art Lierman and William Goddyn, both of Langton.

Clues were unearthed in a search of bushland near the spot where the pair was killed.

The bank note, found 400 yards from the scene of the slaying, was part of the bandit's $23,000 loot, police said.

No trace was found of the Sten gun used in the slaying.

Extremist

CAIRO, June 28—(Reuters)—Trooper Charles C. Van Rooven, Belgian Congo native in the British army, was charged yesterday with having crashed a five-ton armored vehicle into a laundryman's hut, killing one worker, because his shirt was not ready in time for his guard duty.

Truman, Stalin Play Game With Atomic War Stakes

By Harry Ferguson
United Press Foreign News Editor

President Truman and Premier Stalin are playing for keeps today on the checker board of diplomacy.

It's Stalin's move.

He may ponder for quite a while before he makes it, for the stakes are high—the risk of an atomic war. Any small incident might convert the Korean war into a world war.

And he may delay his move because he finds himself in an unfamiliar tactical position. Up until now the Russian strategy in the cold war has been to make a bold, sudden move that puts the other fellow on the defensive.

MOSCOW TECHNIQUE

That's the technique Moscow used in the Berlin blockade, the seizure of Czechoslovakia and the conquest of China.

But this time Mr. Truman made the bold, sudden move. He ordered air and sea support for South Korea, and most of the non-Communist nations rallied to him.

And today Stalin has in front of him an American note calling on him to help halt the Korean war by using his influence with the Korean Reds.

WAITS BREATHLESSLY

That note puts the issue squarely up to the man in the Kremlin, and the world waits breathlessly for him to move. There are three broad courses of action Stalin can take.

1. He can sit tight and say nothing for a while. If the Korean Communists lose the war, the Kremlin then can say that it had nothing to do with the invasion, and, in fact, didn't know anything about it until it happened.

If the Korean Reds win, Moscow then can hail the establishment of another "people's republic" and start making more plans.

2. Stalin can tell Mr. Truman that Russia is not involved in the war, but at the same time send secret aid to the Korean Reds. The way that probably would happen is that some "volunteers" would join the fighting in Korea.

They wouldn't be able to speak very good Korean, but they would know how to manoeuvre a Yak fighter plane and be familiar with the inside of a tank. The chances are they would speak pretty good Russian.

3. Moscow could take the big gamble and throw the Red air force and the Red army openly into the war. If that happened, World War III probably would be here. Once American and Russian pilots began falling in flames through the Korean skies, it would be almost impossible to localize the war.

60 Persons Die, 93 Injured In Syrian Blast

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 28—(AP)—The Syrian government announced today that 60 persons were killed and 93 badly hurt in an explosion yesterday at a fuel depot in Homs, 100 miles north of here.

This official announcement considerably reduces unofficial figures, which listed more than 200 dead and 300 injured.

The Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Elizabeth's husband, left Homs only 25 minutes before the blast. He is on a tour of the middle east.

Ex-Minister Dies In East

OTTAWA, June 28—(BUP)—James Allison Glen, 73, former speaker of the Canadian House of Commons and a former cabinet minister, died at his home in Ottawa last night.

He had been in ill health for several weeks.

Glen was serving as chairman of the joint international committee on flood control at the time of his death and had withdrawn from parliamentary activities.

A native of Scotland, he came to Canada in 1911 and was engaged in law practice at Winnipeg until his election to parliament in 1926. He served as speaker of the house from 1940 to 1945 and was minister of mines and resources from 1945 to 1948.

He is survived by his widow and a son, David P. Glen, a commercial airline pilot.
